===== Voyage of Discovery =====

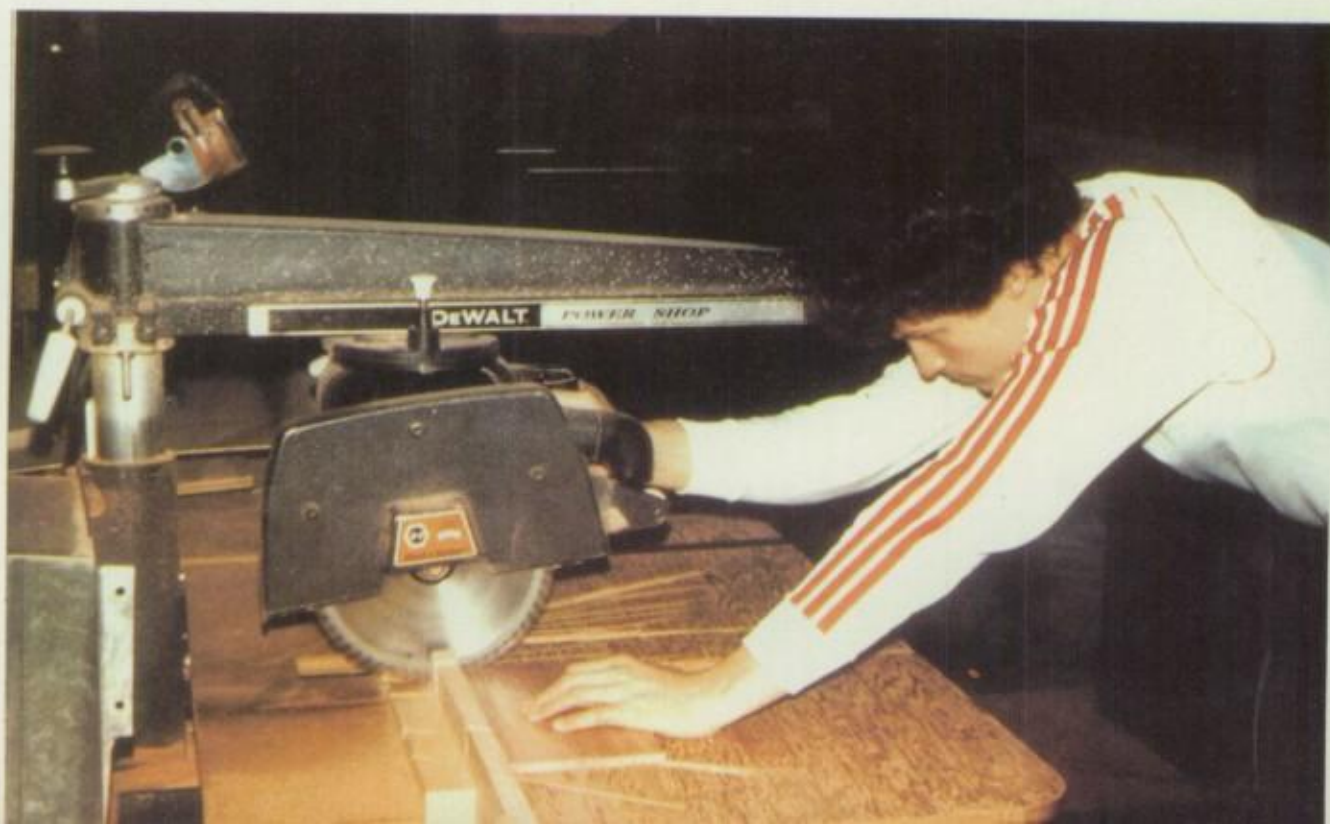

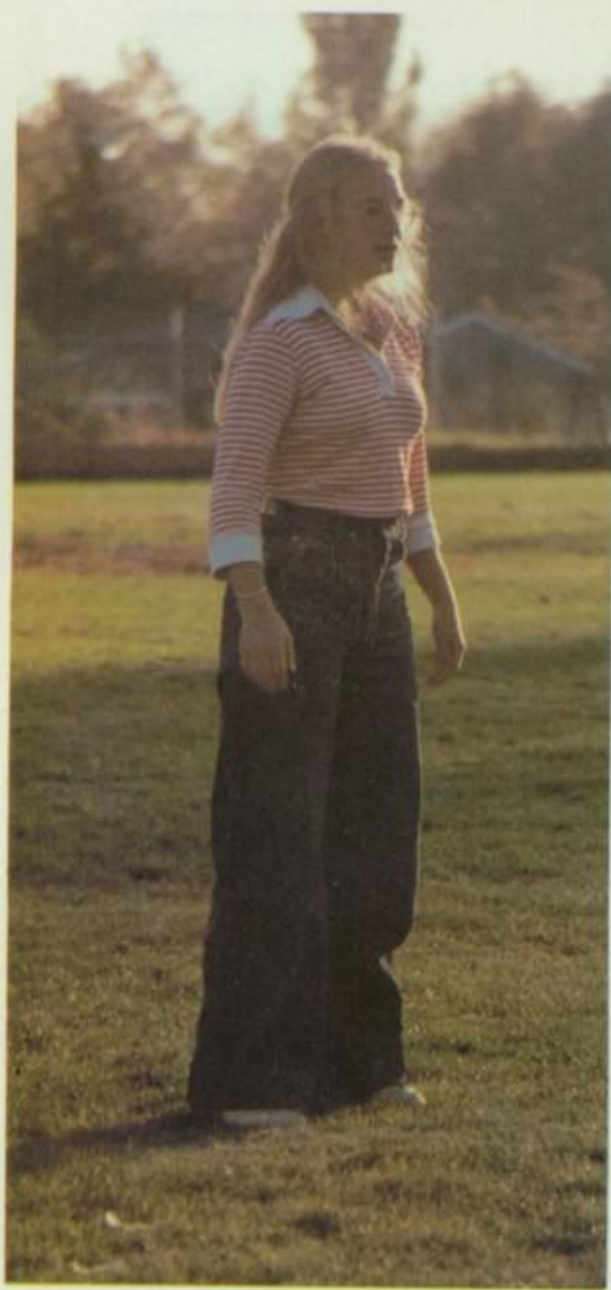

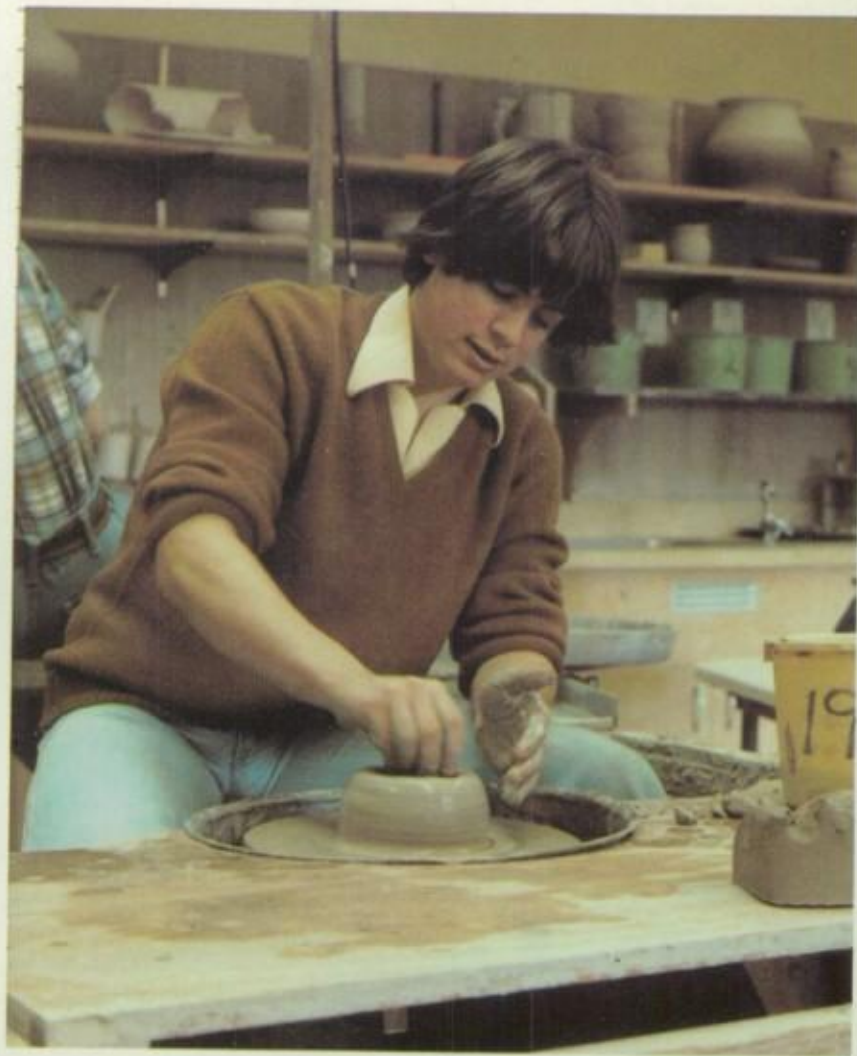

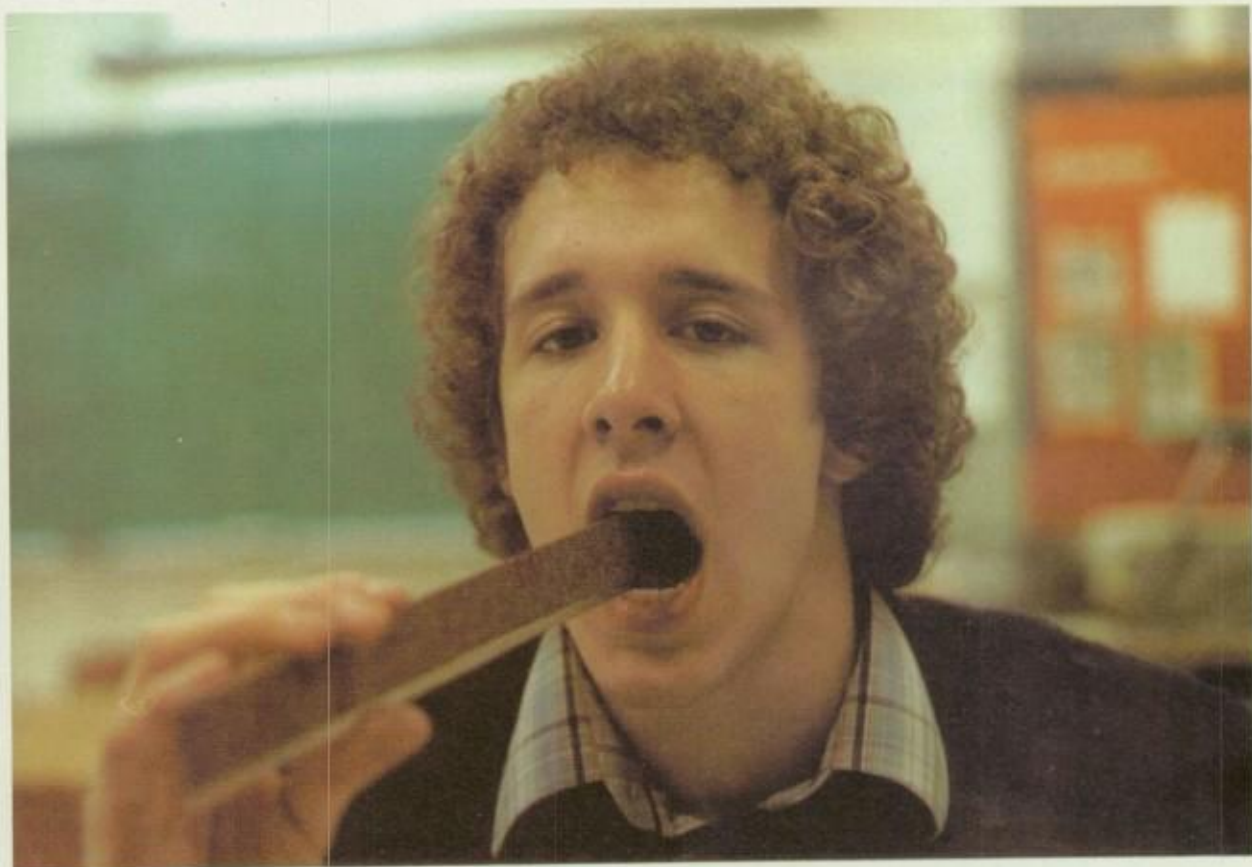

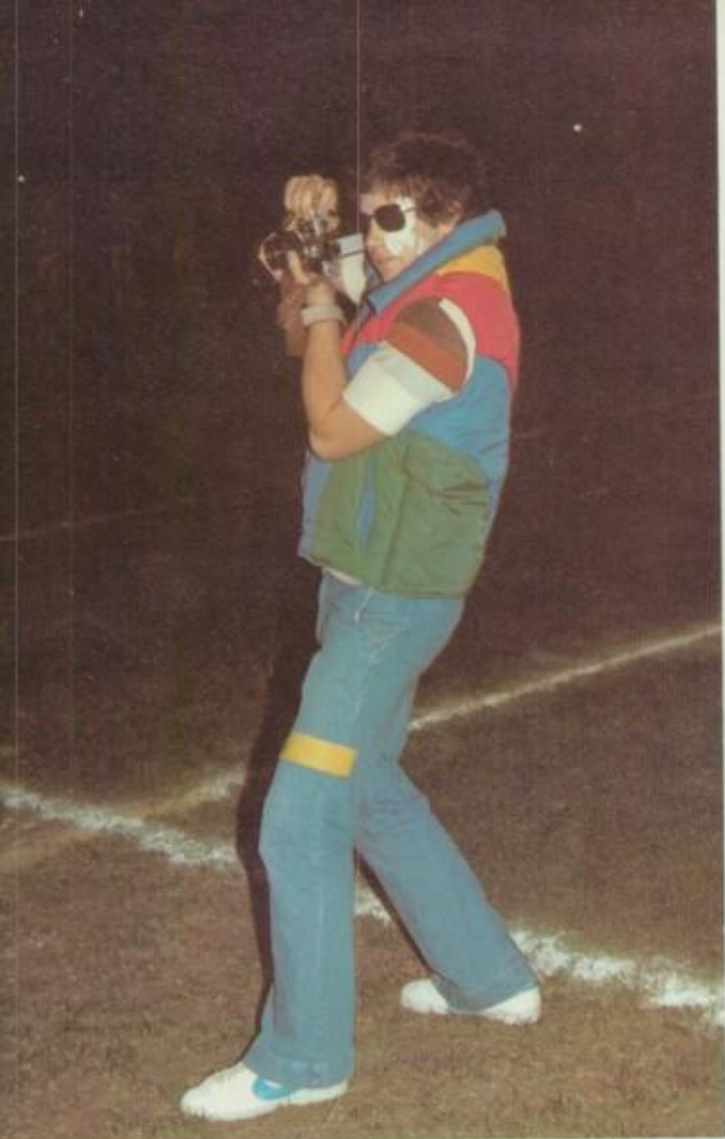

Your life has led and will continue to lead you to new people, places, things, and ideas. And as you are led, your mind will grow in numerous ways because of your discoveries. You are led for four years to people, places, things, and ideas that you might otherwise ignore. But you learn from those years like you do from all the others because life is a voyage of discovery.

≡ Discovering Self ≡

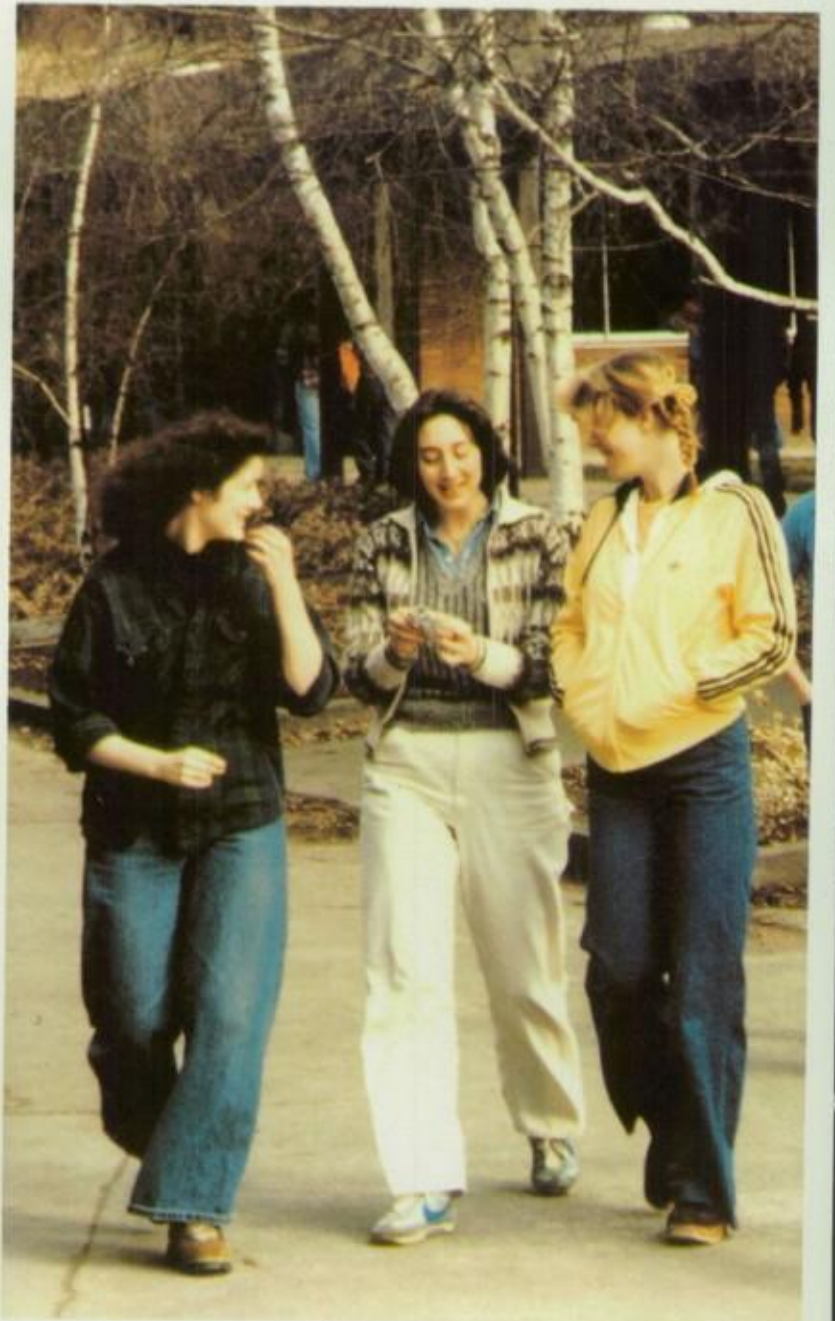

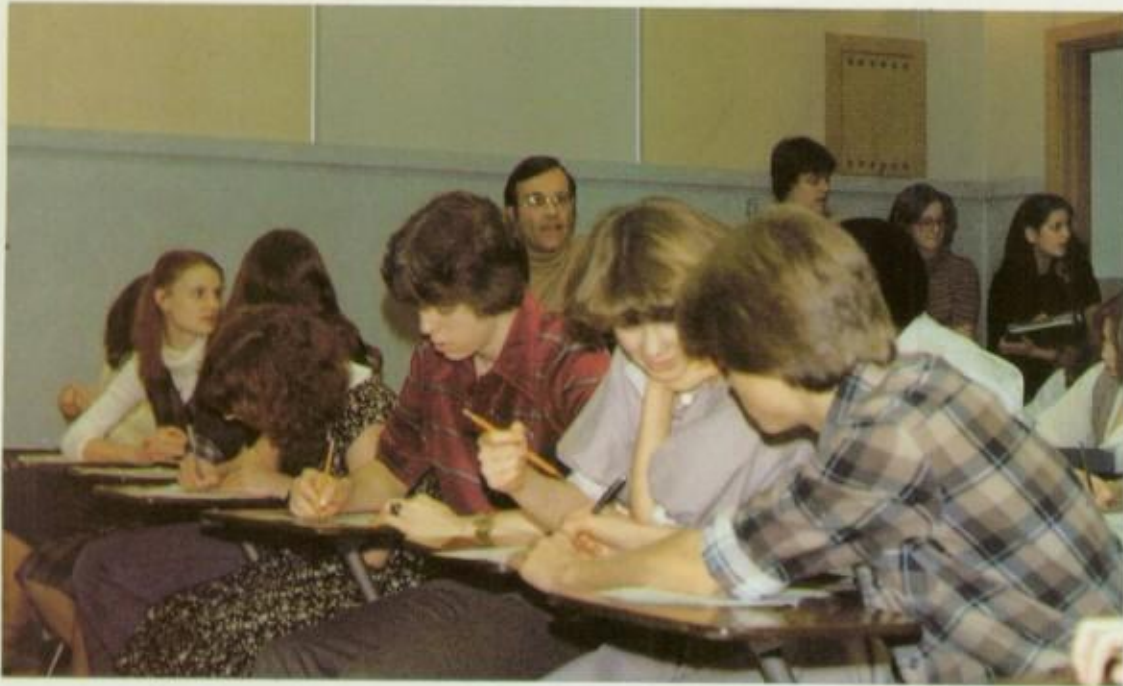

You come,
 Students, actors, friends, leaders.
 You experience,
 Dancers, athletes, freaks, loners.
 You select,
 Mechanics, singers, squares, writers.
 You learn,
 But most importantly,
 You find out who you want you to be.

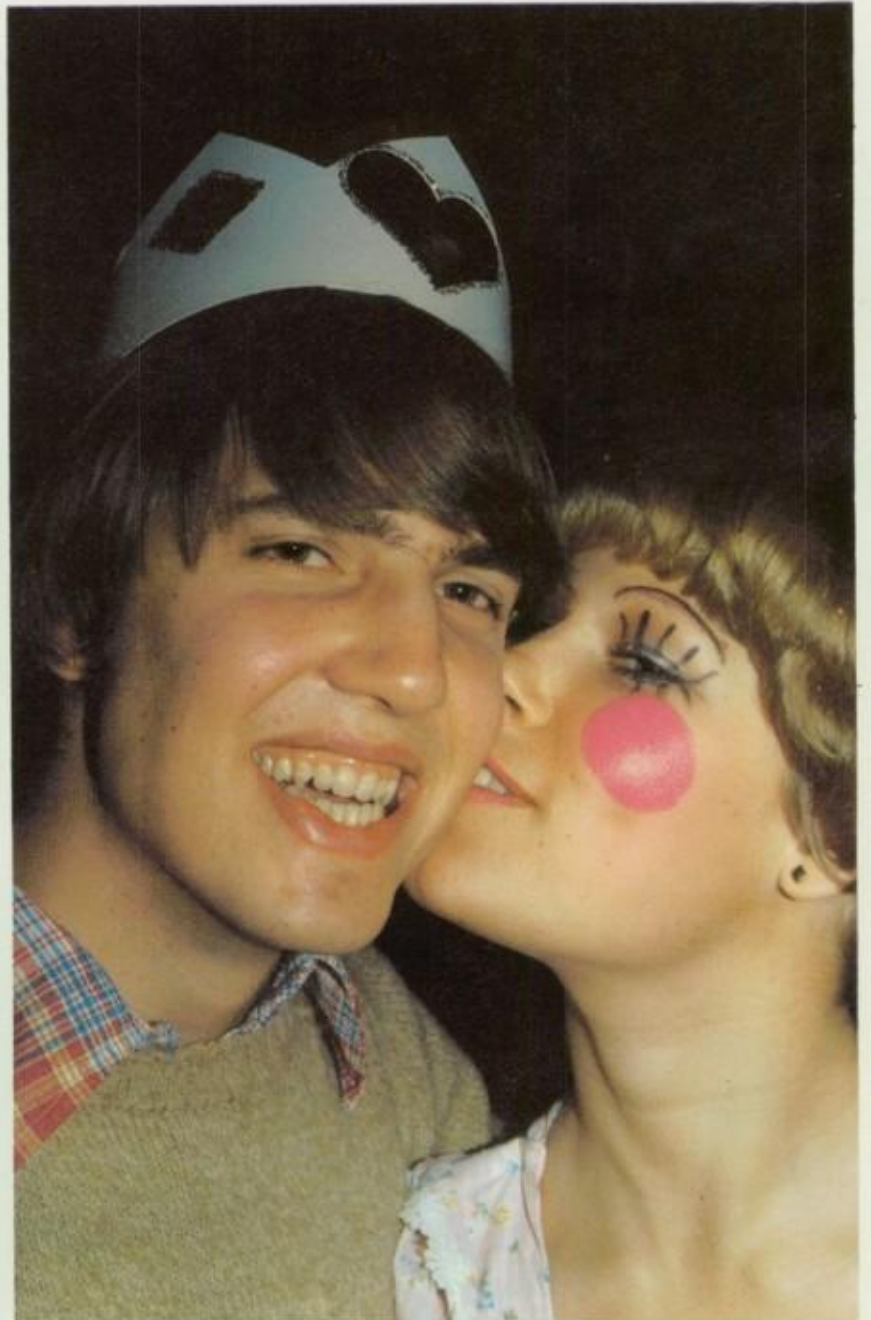

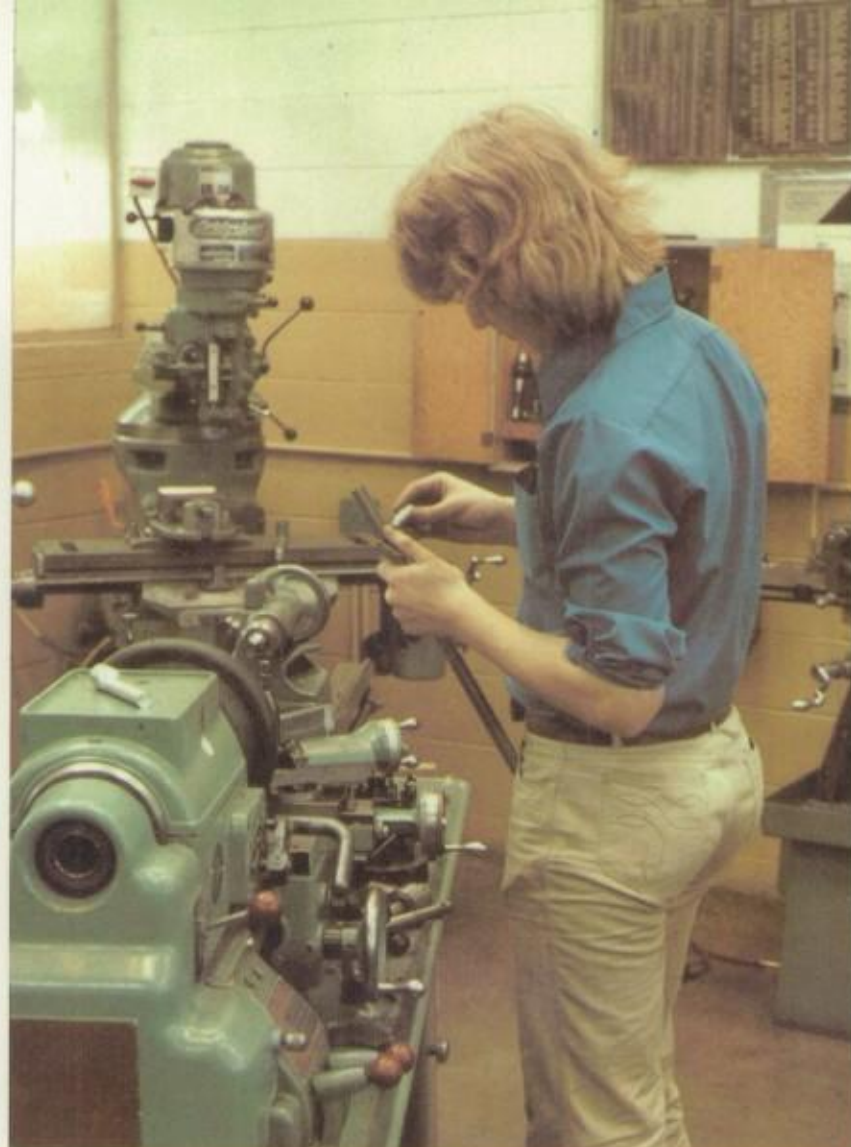

Discovering Others

Playing on a team,
 Sewing up a seam,
 Cheering in the stands,
 Getting to hold hands,
 Walking down the halls,
 Writing on the walls,
 Sitting in a class,
 Playing with the brass,
 Acting on the stage,
 Reading down the page,
 Learning the woes of caring,
 Finding the joys of sharing.

I plow through a novel while you sit through a foreign meal.

Everyone learns in different ways.

You draw maps and charts while he dissects frogs and rats.

Education opens the doors to new worlds.

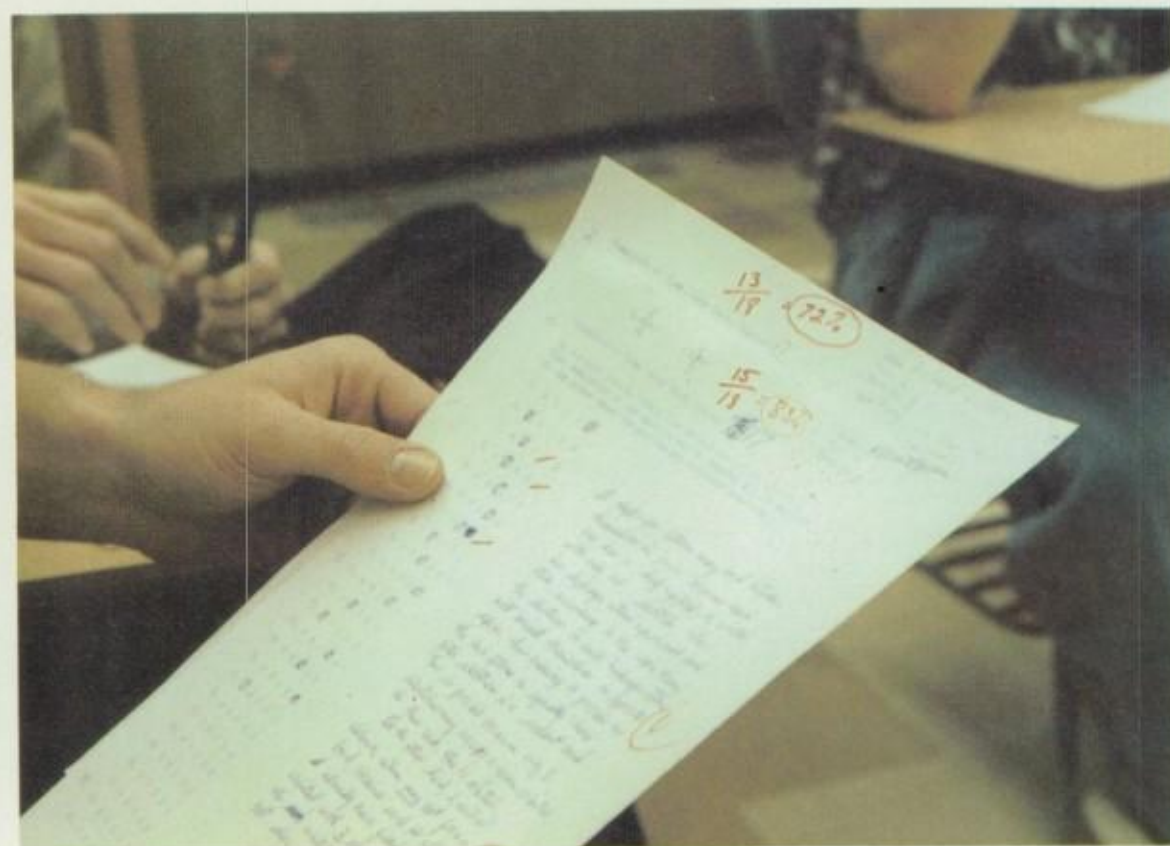

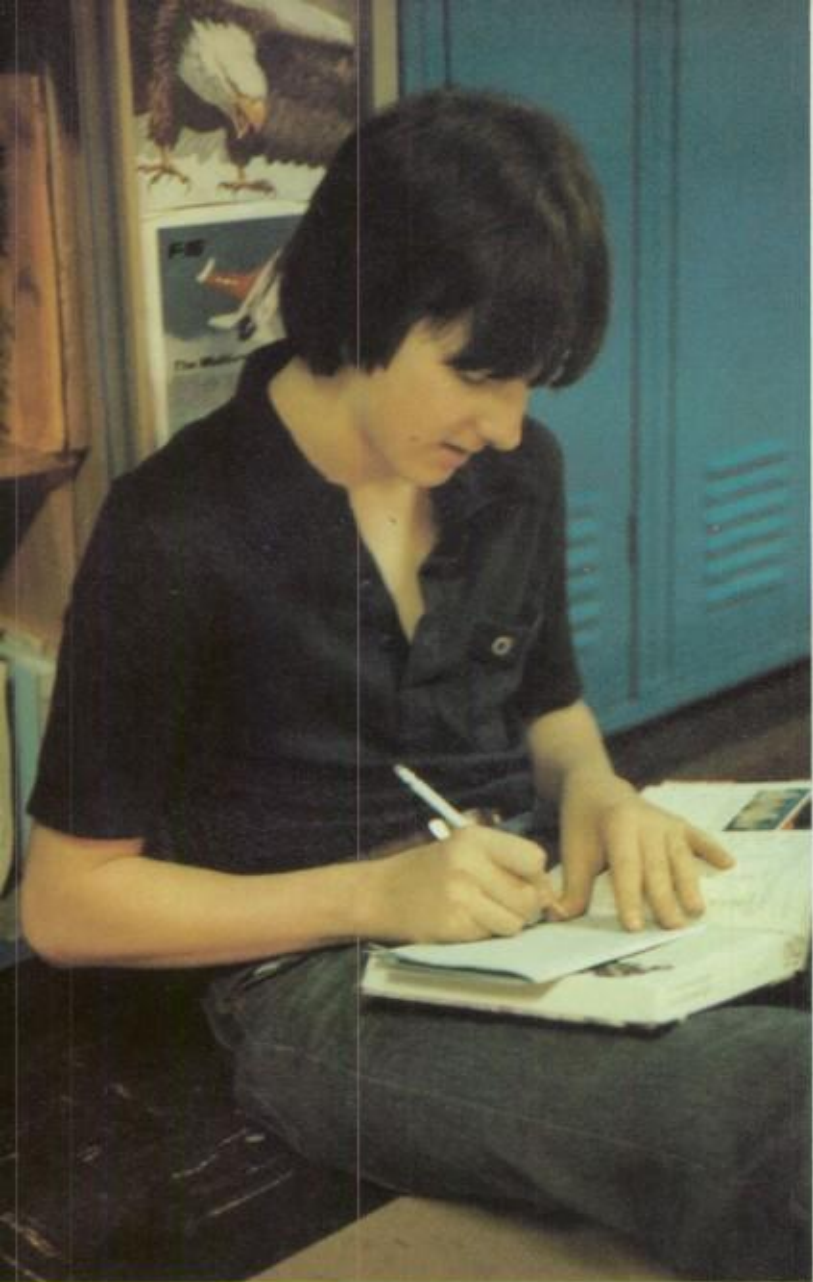

She sings in the choir while I work with a computer.

What we choose to learn reflects who we want to be.

He composes a literary work while you copy a history lecture.

Learning something new each day makes life seem worthwhile.

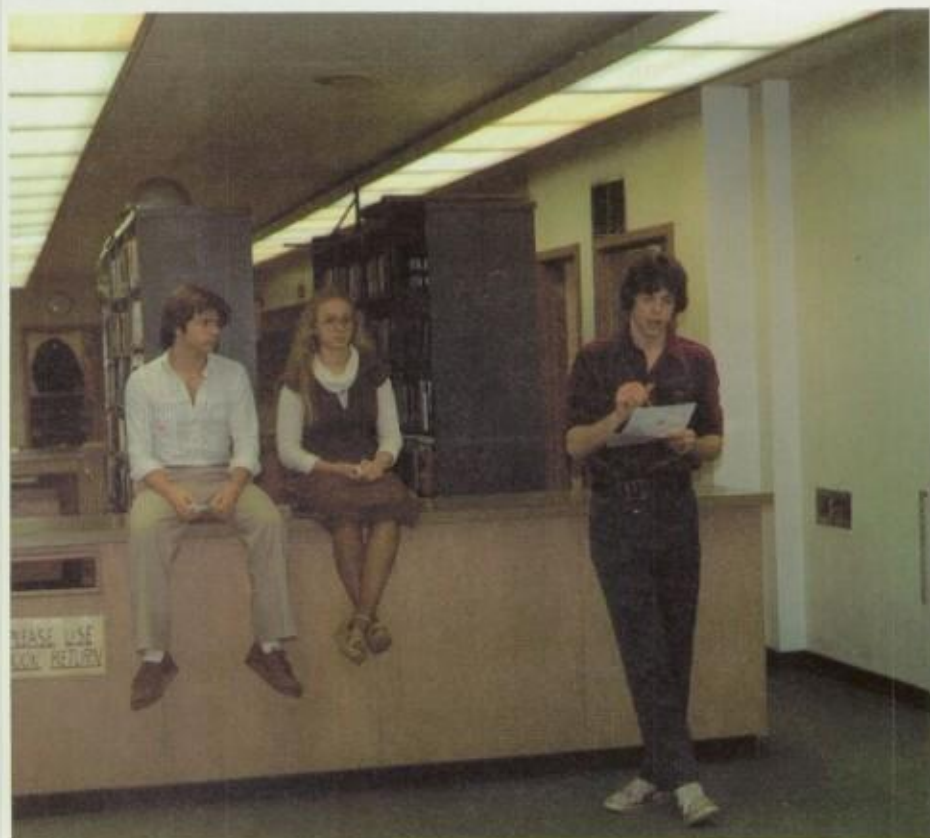

Discovering Knowledge

Wherever you go,
 whatever you do,
 Something is required
 of you.
 A school can show you
 how it's done,
 But it's inside where
 action's begun.
 Responsibility shows
 how you've grown,
 An accomplishment that's all your own.

Discovering Responsibility

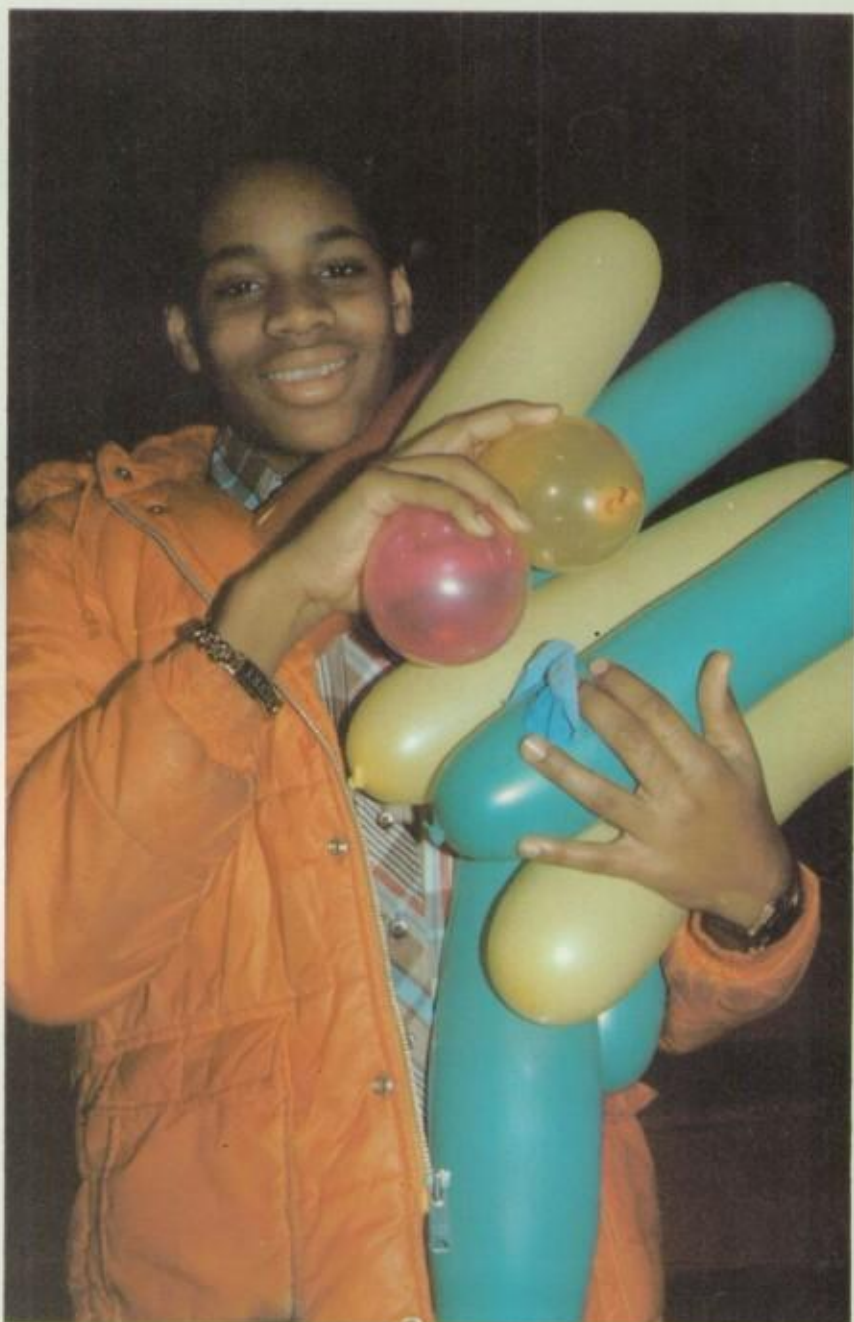

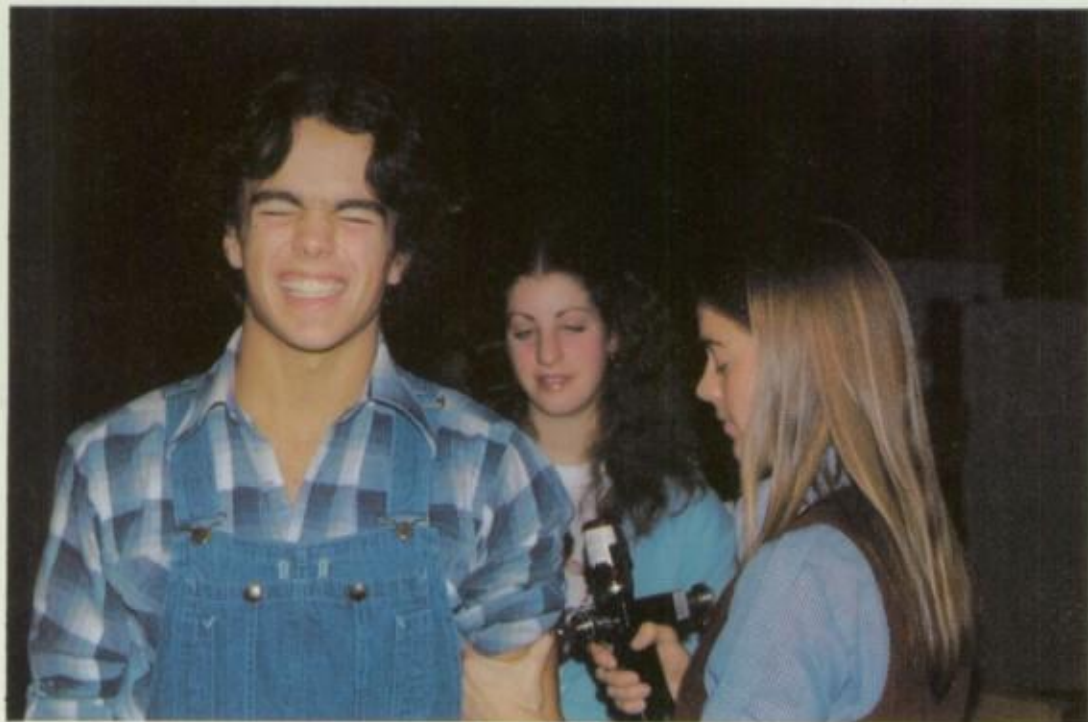

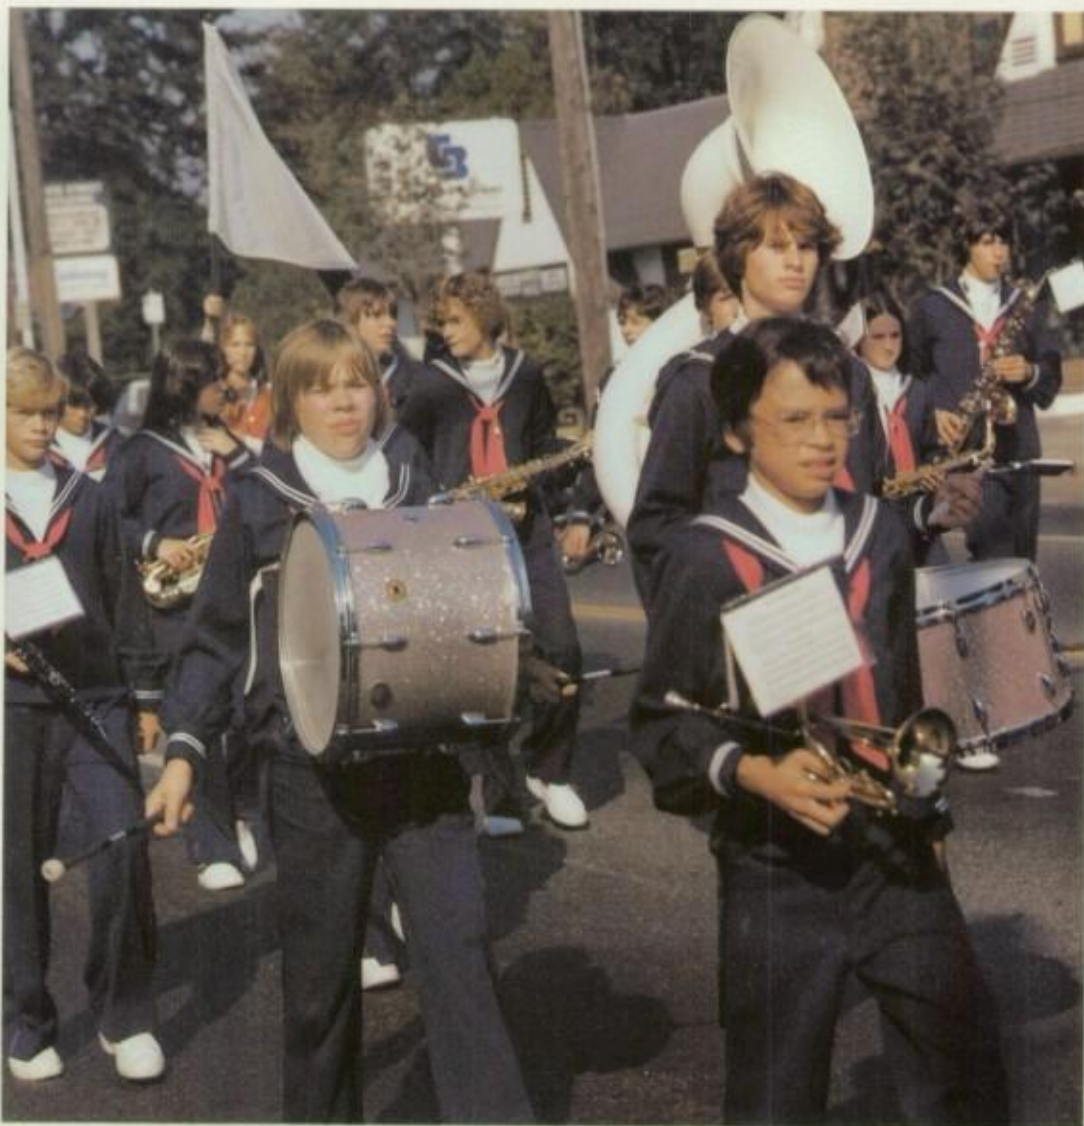

≡ Discovering Life ≡

Four years at this time in your life involve a lot of discoveries.
 Friends, fads, fun, freaks,
 Football, physics, four skits, fast weeks,
 Saturday nights, stadium lights, study hall rights, new mental heights,
 After game movies, dime deposit trays, rare total eclipse, cold wintry days.

*Each thing you see,
 Each person you meet,
 Each place you visit,
 Each fad you experience,
 Each idea you test,
 represents a part of life.
 And each part of life represents a voyage of discovery.*

Off

Activities at school this year started a week before classes with the Big Sister Breakfast. The rally invited senior women and incoming freshman girls and new students to join in an orientation tour of the building and a breakfast afterwards. Sixty seniors and nearly ninety freshman participated. Food for the breakfast was donated by local supermarkets. Organizers are hopeful that the Big Sister Breakfast will become a school tradition.

Since Arena scheduling for the first semester took place last spring, the normally hectic pace of Registration Day was more relaxed than in past years. Health forms were calmly filled out, fees were methodically paid, and pictures were quietly taken. Just so the faculty and staff couldn't relax too much, though, the freshmen put some of that missing tension in the air when they ran through their schedules during modified five minute periods. The Welcome Back Assembly during the first week saw student body officers and administrators introduced and reintroduced to the student body. Following the ritual of years past, new teachers were also initiated.

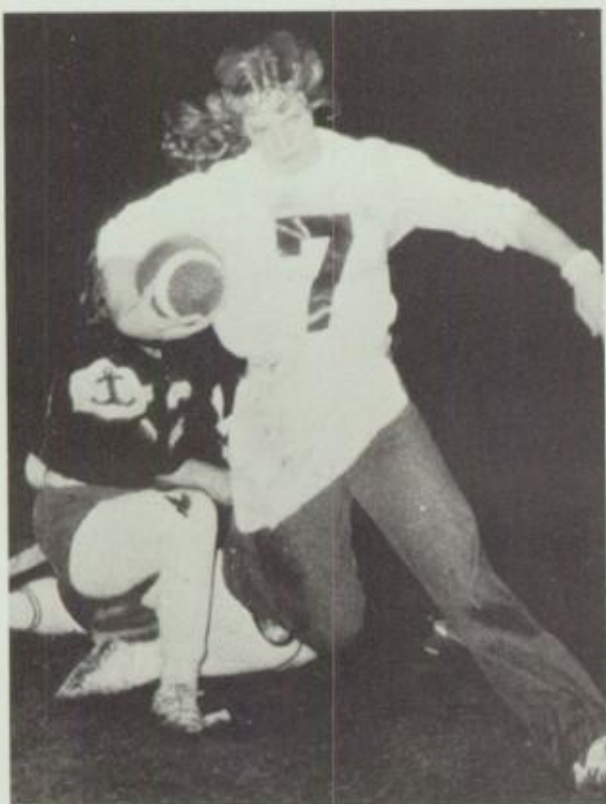

With the new year well under way, the Community Service Committee sponsored its first activity, a Red Cross Blood Drive. Students donated fifty-five pints of much-needed blood to the community.

A measles epidemic in Oregon created much concern this fall. Only a few cases were reported at LOHS, however, which can be partially attributed to the vaccination clinic that was held at school.

A new school-wide fundraiser took place this year in October. The Jog-A-Thon was an hour long run with pledges made to supporters either in per lap or total amounts. Participants could raise money for the school, organizations, or themselves. The second running event of the year was the annual Turkey Trot, won by Steve Turcotte.

The final sporting activity of the fall season was the annual Junior-Senior Powder Puff football game. Despite a previous postponement due to snow, the game was finally played on a cold November night, and the seniors won by a narrow margin.

Classes, sports, activities, and people were brought together in anticipation of an exciting year. New experiences and discoveries lay ahead.

Leadership Workshop 1978 was held at Camp MacGruder, near the community of Rockaway on the Oregon coast. Nearly a hundred senators and student leaders attended the weekend retreat to concentrate on the responsibilities of leadership.

Good weather and excellent participation helped to make the weekend a success. The students were divided into councils which participated in seminars run by the ASB Cabinet. The seminars dealt with listening, organization, priority ranking, and communications. The councils then competed in a Junior Olympics with events such as "Dish it up and down" and "Necking." Free time was scheduled into the weekend and was used for walks on the beach or frisbee throwing in the sun.

On Saturday evening there was dinner then Administration Feedback and a lesson in parliamentary procedure. Afterward, a bonfire offered a relaxing end to a busy day.

Activities began early Sunday morning after breakfast. A Senate meeting was convened, lasting until lunch. Concluding activities were conducted under cloudy skies and signified the end of the workshop. As one participant commented, "There was a unity in the group that made all of the activities both fun and worthwhile."

School Board

Senate

The Senate and the School Board, both elected bodies, became more closely affiliated this year. Student body president John Wendland and School Board representative Jenifer Simpson attended school board meetings and made regular reports to the Senate. In addition, School Board Chairman Bruce Bruinsma visited and spoke to the Senate and encouraged them to continue communication with the board.

The Senate's two major activities this year were dealing with parking sticker bills and preparing to enter a new interscholastic league. Many pieces of legislation were introduced attempting to abolish parking stickers, but each bill was defeated due to the loss of revenue that the student government would suffer.

Reorganization of the Wilco League this year pushed LOHS into a new league with McMinnville, Forest Grove, Lakeridge, Newberg, Tigard, Dallas, and Astoria. The Senate's role in the change was to contribute to the choosing of the League name. Starting in the 1979-80 school year, Lake Oswego will be in the Willamette Valley₂₃ League.

HOMECOMING FEATURES THE JOLLY ROGER

The eye patches, bandanas, and bare feet of Masters of Ceremonies John Klinger and Glen Province helped bring in the week of Homecoming 1978 according to its theme. Pirate's Plunder brought rolled up pants and striped socks, treasures, and eye patches and bandanas among the students, too, as the traditional dress-up days increased competition between the classes. The parade carried out the theme with its many pirates conquering the Hood River Eagle, and the after-game dance completed the week as the Buccaneer Ball.

Four activities took place during Homecoming Week. The first was the Walk-The-Plank contest. The front showcase was filled with jars labeled with names of students, teachers, and administrators. Throughout the week money was donated to the different jars. During a double lunch that began with the traditional galley slave sale, the people whose jars contained the most money walked off the swimming pool diving board. After some last-minute donations that changed the outcome, ASB President John Wendland was proclaimed the student winner. Robin Rivenburg and Larry Andersen were proclaimed the faculty plank-walkers, and Principal Tom Lindersmith was the winning administrator.

Taking place on Wednesday evening of Homecoming Week were the Spaghetti Dinner and the Car Rally. The Spaghetti Dinner brought students, parents and faculty together for the student government-sponsored activity.

The first LOHS Car Rally featured fifteen participants, but only two of the fifteen cars completed the rally. As a result, the future of the rally is questionable.

CLASS OF '81 TAKES FIRST PLACE

The finale of Homecoming Week started with a pep assembly at which Queen Brenda King was coronated. The parade, consisting of the queen and her court, the floats, the band, the First Mates, and other motor vehicles, then ran from the top of A Avenue to George Rogers Park.

The parade participants made a repeat performance at the football game against Hood River. At half-time the court was presented, and Queen Brenda talked to the crowd.

The results of Homecoming competition were announced. The Class of '81 dominated the winning ranks by placing first with their float and sign and first in overall competition. The freshmen won the dress-up competition.

The dance followed the ringing of the Victory bell. The cafeteria was well decorated with one wall covered with a mural of Western store fronts and another featuring a large painting of a masted ship.

CABINET

Work for A.S.B. Cabinet members began during the summer with various workshops and projects. Treasurer Julie Bacon, So-Co Bonny Readon, Business Manager Troy Schmit, Clubs and Committees Coordinator Marsha Meyer, and Rally Coordinator Cathy VanGulik attended a state-wide convention of student body officers and used their experience to plan LOHS's own Leadership Workshop. Also, President John Wendland traveled to South Carolina to attend a national conference of student leaders.

A major renovation of the Cabinet office was completed over the summer. The room was enlarged, repainted, and carpeted to provide an improved working atmosphere. The communication center proved to be a most successful addition as it provided mailboxes for all areas of student government.

During the first half of the year the Cabinet effectively coordinated Homecoming and Christmas events, the canned food drive and class competitions, and generally handled all activities smoothly and with a minimum of crises.

ASB

Although the eight leaders of the student government had no activities of their own, they were kept busy by the great number and variety of events and responsibilities that come with the changing of the seasons. Their dedication to student life and their responsiveness to student concerns made the Cabinet's year a successful one. Cabinet members devoted many hours of their time in concert with administrators, teachers, and students to help make the 78-79 school year unique, interesting, and enjoyable.

Perhaps the Cabinet's biggest event of the year was the organization of May Fete, which began in February with the planning of the many aspects of the traditional spring celebration. Members assisted the classes in the preparation of skits and helped So-Co Bonny Reardon in her varied duties.

In the midst of May Fete preparation, the Wolverhampton Exchange students and staff arrived, and the Cabinet served as their hosts and helped to arrange orientation activities for their stay in Lake Oswego.

As the year drew to a close, ASB elections for the 1979-1980 school year arrived, and new officers were elected. The Cabinet finished the year with three major activities: the Leadership Assembly, where they were replaced by the newly elected Cabinet, then the Honors Assembly and the Graduation program, which were shared with the rest of the senior class.

CLASS OFFICERS

SENIORS

During their senior year the class of '79 did not remain idle. The class officers sponsored two dances, one in the fall and one in the spring, and earned lots of money. They also ordered class mugs for interested class members. May Fete was a success for the seniors. They won the skit competition, and they were responsible for supervising the week's festivities and selecting the May Fete court. As their final year at L.O.H.S. drew to a close, they presented the school with their class gift as a farewell gesture to the school.

The big goal for the juniors this year was to raise money for the junior-senior prom in June. They sold doughnuts at break for half the year, and they sold carnations at May Fete to help bolster their treasury. They collected more money for their efforts than any other class in recent years because of the increasing expense of sponsoring the prom event. This year's prom was held at Portland's Hilton Hotel. Its theme was "Place of Dreams."

SOPHOMORES

The Class of '81 started the year off impressively with a victory in Homecoming competition. They sold doughnuts at break and flowers at Christmas to raise money. The creativity of the Sophomore Class was also apparent at Christmas when they won the tree decorating contest and at May Fete when they put on an excellent skit.

The freshmen were well-organized this year. They earned enough money selling doughnuts, candy, and spring flowers that they could possibly surpass the fundraising record if the effort continues. During the year the Class of '82 also held two car washes to add to their bank balance. The freshmen showed great promise for the future with a May Fete skit that was acclaimed as the best frosh production in many years.

Something new was tried during the fall drama season this year. Two productions were presented, first of which was You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown. This musical comedy composed of short sketches based on the comic strip "Peanuts" sold out all three nights that it played. After the last night, the cast toured schools and gave performances.

OSWEGO HIGH SCHOOL

No matter what the weather or the situation, the rallies were about encouraging a show of LAKER SPIRIT from everyone around the school. Their tireless energy helped pull the sports teams through each of the seasons. Their creative ideas for assemblies, locker tags, and cheers made each season more exciting.

This year the Rally had a new advisor in Russ Darmour, who seemed to bring an entirely new Rally enthusiasm to Lake Oswego High School. All Lakers should be proud of the 1978-1979 Rally Squads.

A Poem to Present the Varsity Basketball Rally
by . . . Russ Darmour

The basketball rally is a sight to behold,
They're all pretty people and their hearts are pure gold
They work hard promoting spirit . . . at games we all hear it,
Leading the crowd how they cheer it — good sports? Never fear it.
Look at Lorea Towery, she's on top of it all,

I bite my lip, I hold my breath and hope she won't fall. Sally's another high climber, adding fame to the Griffith name, Holding up pyramids, being so rowdy, you've seen her at every game.

Heavens, have you seen Matt Evans, he sure carries a lot of weight,

To hear cheers tone through his megaphone, old Evans rallies just great. Jim Cottle really flips for the team, the girls say he's so cute,

Would you believe he's the quiet type when he's not wearing a rally suit. Here's a go-getter, a leader, a queen,

Michelle Ney's got to be one of the finest we've ever seen Except for Marcia Badgely who has some spirit too . . .

Does she look a little like Wonder Woman to you? Where's Beth Klinkenberg, now she has got pizzazz,

We dig your style, your cool, and all the rest of that jazz. Debbie Torry, I'm sorry but someone had to be last,

I want you to know wherever you go, having you around has sure been a blast. There you have the Rally, so I mustn't dally,

Now without further delay here's the mike and take it away.

Four girls, Lois Kronquist, Connie Beckett, Sharon Wolfard and Marcee Shriver, went to Drill Team World camp in Everett, Washington. Lois Kronquist, Connie Beckett and Sharon Wolfard won honor ribbons for outstanding performance. Marcee Shriver was runner-up for the most outstanding girl at camp. In the West Albany dance competition the First Mates received third place out of twelve teams. In the Oregon State dance contest they placed seventh. Sharon Wolfard represented Oregon in Miss Drill Team U.S.A. pageant in Los Angeles. This year the girls performed at home basketball games, home football games and at the State Basketball Tournament. An exciting addition to the team was their new sequin sailor suits. The First Mates advisor was Milli Hoelscher.

Fall Sports

VARSITY FOOTBALL

All good things must come to an end. Laker head football coach Boyd Crawford just wished the end wouldn't have come as soon as it did.

The Laker team was a formidable force in Wilco League play this season, but in the game for all the marbles — the one determining representation in the state playoffs — Lake Oswego lost a hard fought 20-14 decision to Clackamas. As a result, the Lakers finished the season with a 7-2 record, led the Wilco League in offense, yet remained on the sidelines during the playoffs.

The Laker offensive team was led by all-league running-backs Dan Paget and Monte Stenberg, who followed the blocks of tackles Hayden Holland and Tom Sefert, guards Paul Hopkins and Allen Gilbert, tight end Mark Sherman, and center Matt Evans to a 29-point and 309 yards-per-game average. Sefert and Evans were also chosen for first-team all-league recognition.

Laker signal caller Tim Juarez had a fine year, leading the Wilco League in scoring and passing for eight touchdowns. His play added balance to the Laker offensive attack.

"It's the best offensive rushing team we've had in the 16 years I've been at Lake Oswego," commented Coach Crawford. "The offensive interior line did a superb job blocking," he added.

With the exception of an early season loss to Barlow, the defense was steady, allowing just over two touchdowns a game. All-league defenders on the defensive unit were linebacker Derek Warren, guard Ron Hunt, and end Doug Moshofsky, who was selected for the second team.

After a split of their first two contests, the Lakers rallied to win six consecutive games by convincing margins.

The playoff game against Clackamas was a hard-hitting defensive battle. The Cavaliers, the Willamette Division champs, spotted Lake Oswego a 14-13 halftime lead at Civic Stadium, but a third-quarter touchdown accounted for the final 20-14 result.

"We made too many mistakes against Clackamas," explained Crawford. "The intensity was there. It was the best hitting game of the season for us." The result was a disappointing end to an outstanding season. "We were very inexperienced to start with," summarized Crawford. "But we came on very well."

J.V. — FROSH FOOTBALL

JUNIOR VARSITY — This year's J.V. football team completed an exciting season with their ninth victory of a perfect 9-0 season.

Since junior varsity competition is a stepping-stone to varsity competition, this year's performance gives reason for optimism that future L.O. football teams will be contenders.

Head coach Rich Anderson felt that the strength of the varsity team was a major factor in his team's success.

"The varsity was so deep in talent, that we were able to reap the benefits. We had a lot of depth, and most of our kids were able to play a lot of football."

Anderson said that he was especially pleased with his defense and kicking game, and he emphasized that leadership by the juniors played an important role.

FROSH FOOTBALL — A rash of injuries and a very competitive Wilco Freshman League were important factors in the disappointing 3-5 Laker record this season.

Coach Terry English remarked, "We played better football than our record indicated."

The offense was led by quarterback Jim Engelerdt and runningback Mike Jarman, each of whom had excellent seasons.

The Laker defense was led by Brian Smith, Don Sefert, John Gortmaker and Mark Taplett.

Head Coach English was assisted by Cliff Soule and Craig Hynes.

Volleyball

The Laker varsity volleyball team, playing against excellent competition, completed its season with a winning 8-7 record. Coach Jim Knoedler felt his team gained respect from its opponents over the course of the season. "Lake Oswego completed its second winning season in three years. I would say that's a respectable achievement and something to be proud of, particularly in a tough league like the Wilco League," Coach Knoedler commented.

Knoedler feels that the future is bright for volleyball at Lake Oswego. "We are losing only two seniors, and we have many talented younger players returning. Laker volleyball should continue to be strong next year." The two graduating seniors are Janine Simpson and Cheryl Allen.

The Lakers responded well to tournament play, compiling a record of 16-8 and placing second in tourneys at Hood River and Columbia.

The junior varsity squad had a 10-5 season record under the guidance of Coach Barb Taylor, and the freshman team gained some valuable competitive experience under Coach Sandra Sheffield. Twelve girls, including four freshmen, competed on the two teams.

Cross

A lot of good things happened in cross country this season. For starters, the boys' team took home the district dual-meet championship trophy by compiling a 12-2 record in Wilco League competition, although finishing fourth out of 15 teams in the district meet and missing a trip to the state meet by a scant eight points. Another highlight was beating Lakeridge for the first time ever, giving the Pacers their first dual-meet loss in five years.

The girls' squad placed eighth at district, while compiling a 4-9-1 dual-meet record. The team was young, returning its top six runners next year.

The Lakers had some outstanding individuals. Senior captain and four-year letterman Gordy Wiltshire went through the dual meet season unbeaten, then finished fourth at district and 22nd at state. Junior Vance Blow placed third at district and 40th at state, and senior co-captain Ralph McAfee finished 13th at district.

The girls' team was led by freshman Cherie Brambilla, who stormed through the dual-meet season by losing to only two Lakeridge runners, both of whom she later beat at district in finishing third. She capped off an outstanding rookie season by finishing 61st at state. Junior captain Nancy Cushman finished in eighth place at district.

Based on their district meet performances, Gordy Wiltshire, Blow, and Brambilla, were first-team all-Wilco League selections, and McAfee and Cushman were second-team picks.

Gymnastics

The girls' gymnastics team had a rough season this year. After losing their first practice meet, the girls picked themselves up and won their first counting meet against The Dalles. As the season progressed, though, they lost to several league opponents which hurt their record considerably.

Injuries also gave the team some problems, as several girls were unable to compete throughout the season.

With an optimistic outlook for the future, Coach Wells said that the team could be one of the best around if more girls were willing to participate and put out a maximum effort.

BOYS' VARSITY SOCCER

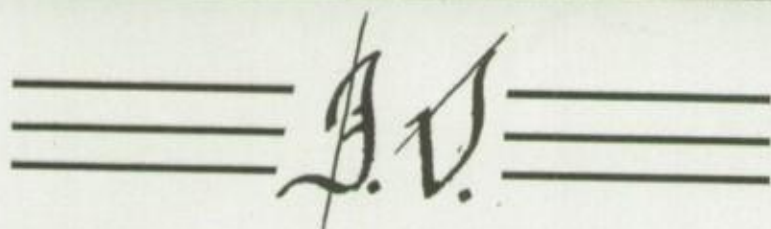

It was a building year for Scott Edmonds's boys' soccer team as it struggled to a 5-6-1 season.

"Our season record was disappointing, but in light of our injuries and inexperience, the team did fairly well," said Edmonds.

Todd Fauvelle and Neil Megson were second team Wilco League All-Stars and team leaders in scoring. Fauvelle collected 12 goals and 7 assists and set several individual records, while Megson had 7 goals and 7 assists. Clay Arkless added scoring punch to the attack. The team was captained by Steve Dickerson.

Despite the disappointing season, the future looks bright for next year.

There were two junior varsity soccer teams at Lake Oswego this year.

The JVI team, coached by Brian Boucher, compiled a 5-6-1 record, while the JVII team of freshman players had a 10-1-1 record under Coach Tim Schelmerdine.

Varsity coach Scott Edmonds called the freshman team, "One of the best freshman groups in the state."

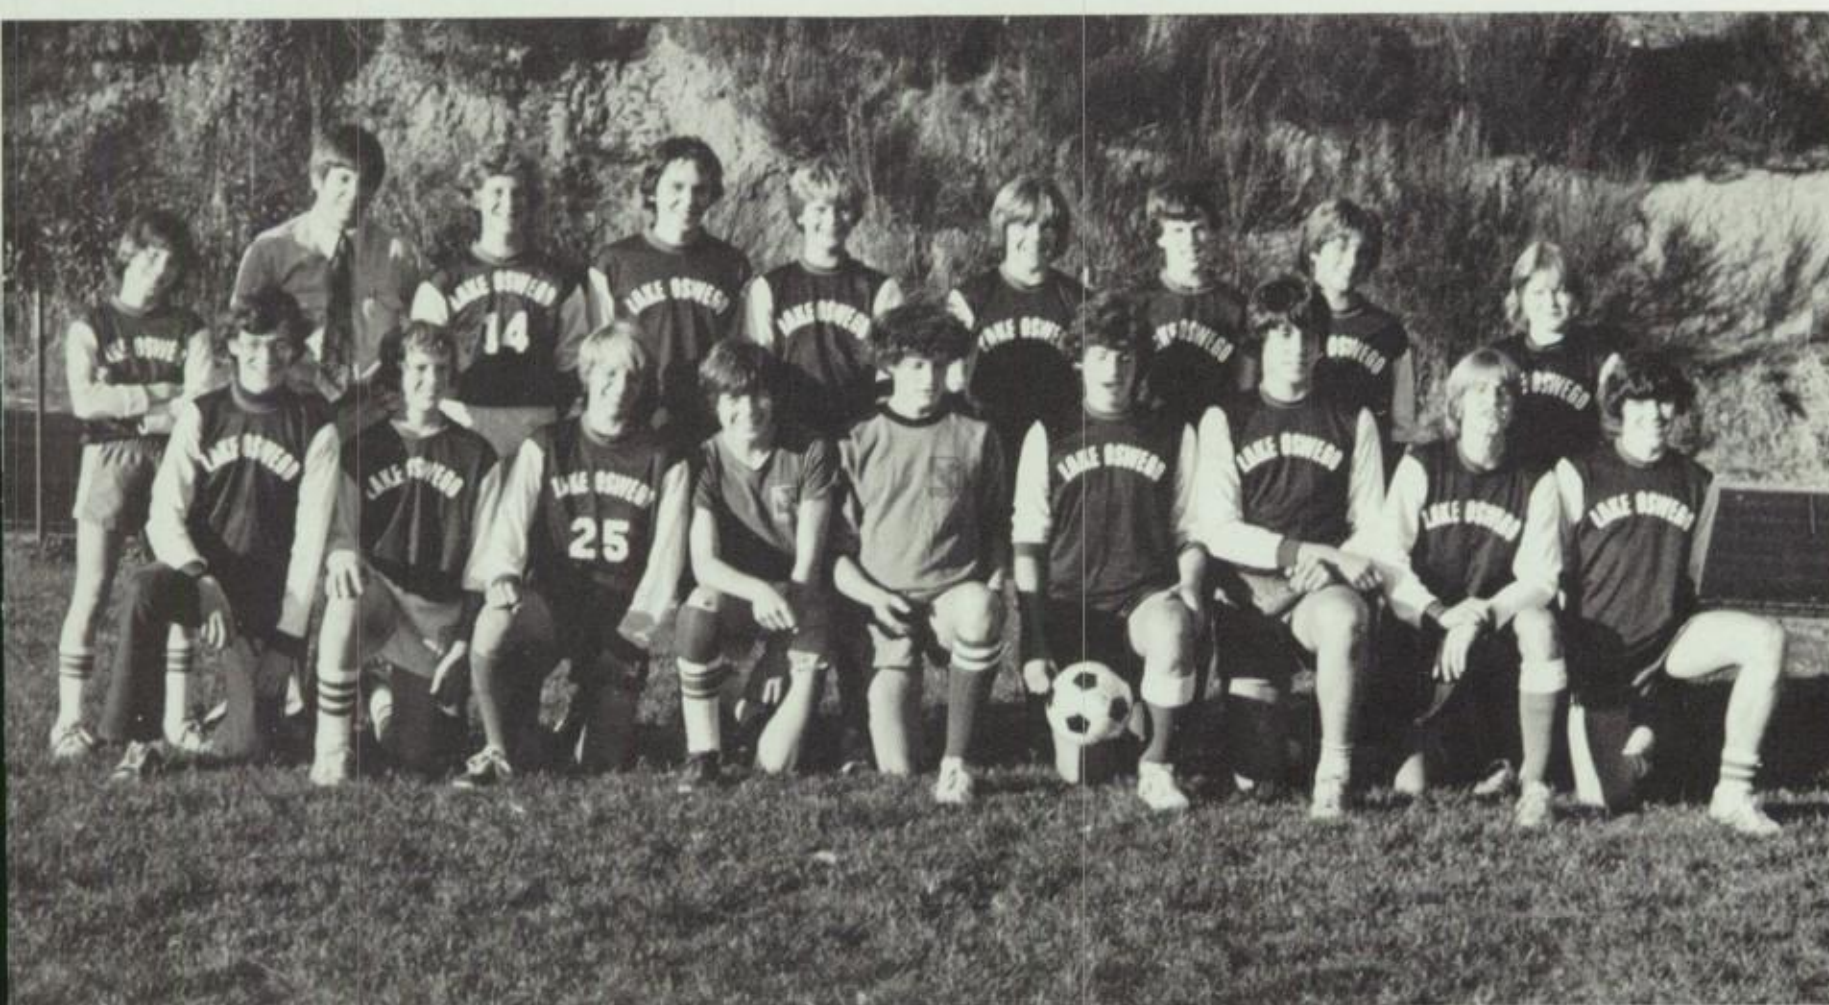

The JV soccer program offered the younger players a fine opportunity to gain competitive experience. These participants will form a fine nucleus for future teams.

GIRLS' VARSITY SOCCER

In only their third year of competition, the girls' soccer team completed a tough season with a state championship.

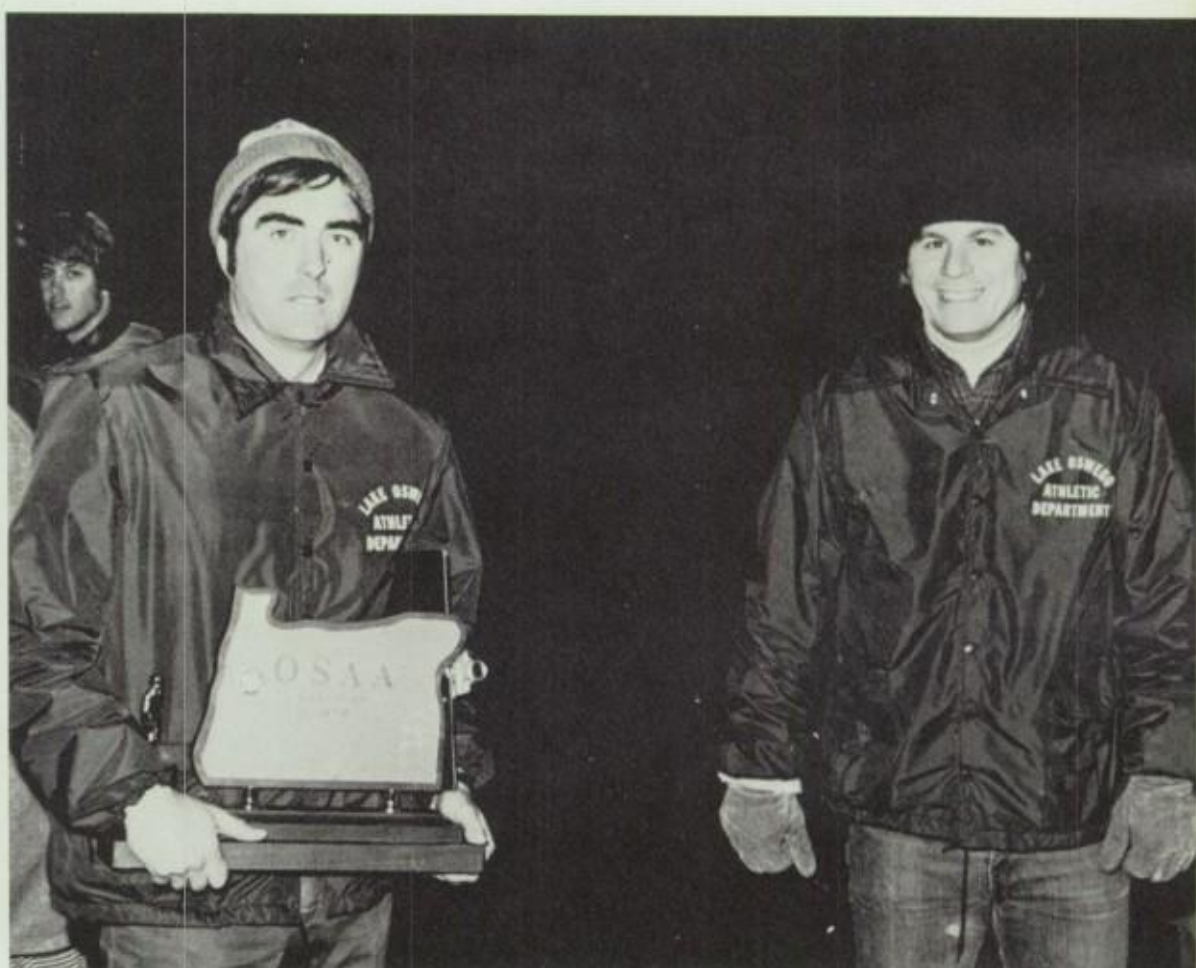

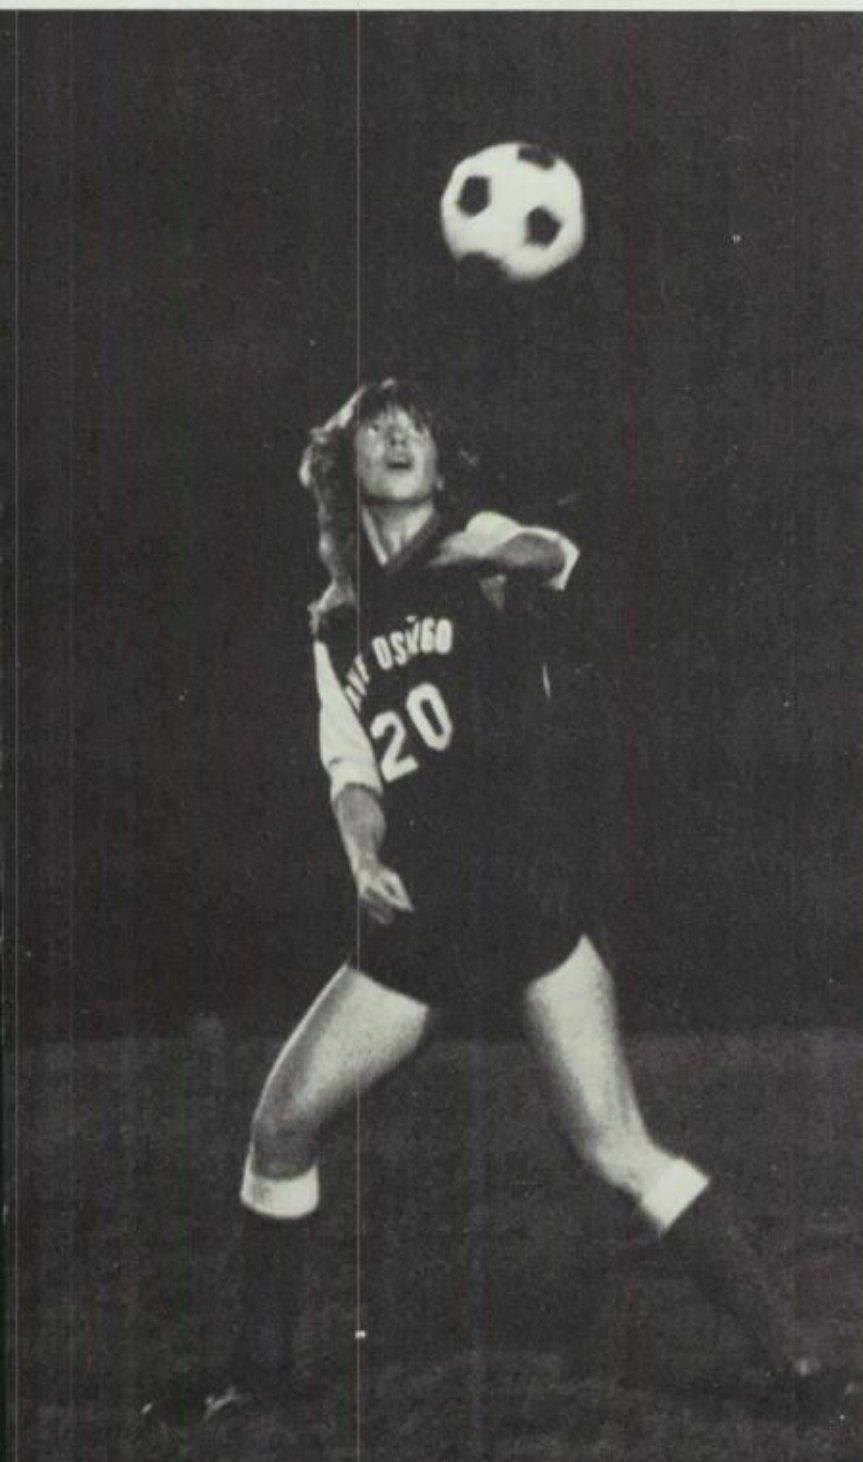

The state title game between Lake Oswego and Aloha ended up in a scoreless tie, and had the two teams played off again, Coach Dave Spire expressed confidence that the Lakers would have been victorious. "We were definitely the underdogs, but we felt we could win the game. After the game we still felt we were the better team. I know we didn't play our best game of the year."

The team, which survived an erratic start, defeated Reynolds for the Wilco League title and Lincoln in the state semi-finals for the right to play Aloha.

The Lakers were paced by first-team all-leaguers Shell King, Tina Fauvelle, Deb Fitzugh, and Susie Habernigg. Steph Heisler was a second team selection, and Linda Brock and Lisa Lortz were honorable mention picks. King and Fauvelle were this year's team captains.

Coach Spire also praised seniors Mary Ellen Howard, Kathy Settergren, Jenifer Simpson, Dana Alexander, Jackie Crump, and Molly McPhail for their leadership contributions. Goalie Sharon McGuire had an outstanding season, permitting only two goals over the final seven contests and amassing nine season shutouts.

"It was truly a team championship. We had no individual stars. The team worked well together and everyone played a part in our success."

GIRLS' JV SOCCER

The girls' junior varsity soccer team compiled a successful 9-2-1 record during 1978. The fine talent exhibited at the JV level virtually assures LOHS of a continued winning tradition in girls' soccer over the next few years.

Coach Tony Mastroleo expressed his satisfaction with the team. "We had a high-scoring team and a strong defense. The girls learned the fundamentals necessary to compete at the varsity level."

With the popularity of soccer at Lake Oswego on the increase, and with a roster of talented players returning next year, the future looks promising.

WINTER

Full Stream Ahead

Top: L.O. faculty member Scott Edmonds displayed his basketball handling agility during the Lake Oswego-Lakeridge faculty basketball game.
Bottom: Ice glazed everything, including the chain-link fencing, after the spectacular ice storm that interrupted school in January.

With barely a moment's respite between fall and winter, the student body began a whole new season of activity. Winter weather was capricious, generally doing its best to disrupt school, much to the delight of the students and the lament of the staff.

A troupe of Shakespearean players came to help the junior class raise funds, but the audience turnout was slight due to the busy Christmas season.

After the rest and relaxation of Christmas vacation, students were given a chance to exercise their raw nerves during Arena scheduling for second semester. Dr. Kaiser, administrator in charge, said that Arena went smoothly despite the distraction of snowy weather.

Little did anyone anticipate such a thing as a second Christmas holiday. The second week of January became just that when first sleet and then freezing rain caused the cancellation of school for four entire days due to hazardous driving conditions and a community-wide power outage.

The Musical Theatre Workshop class performed the musical GODSPELL at the end of the first semester. The cafeteria was transformed into a theatre-in-the-round for the show, and a combination of free admission and first-rate performances packed the house both nights.

A variation of the traditional dance following a basketball game was undertaken after a girls' varsity contest. A Sock Hop was sponsored, and although the turnout was small, those who endeavored to enjoy themselves had a good time.

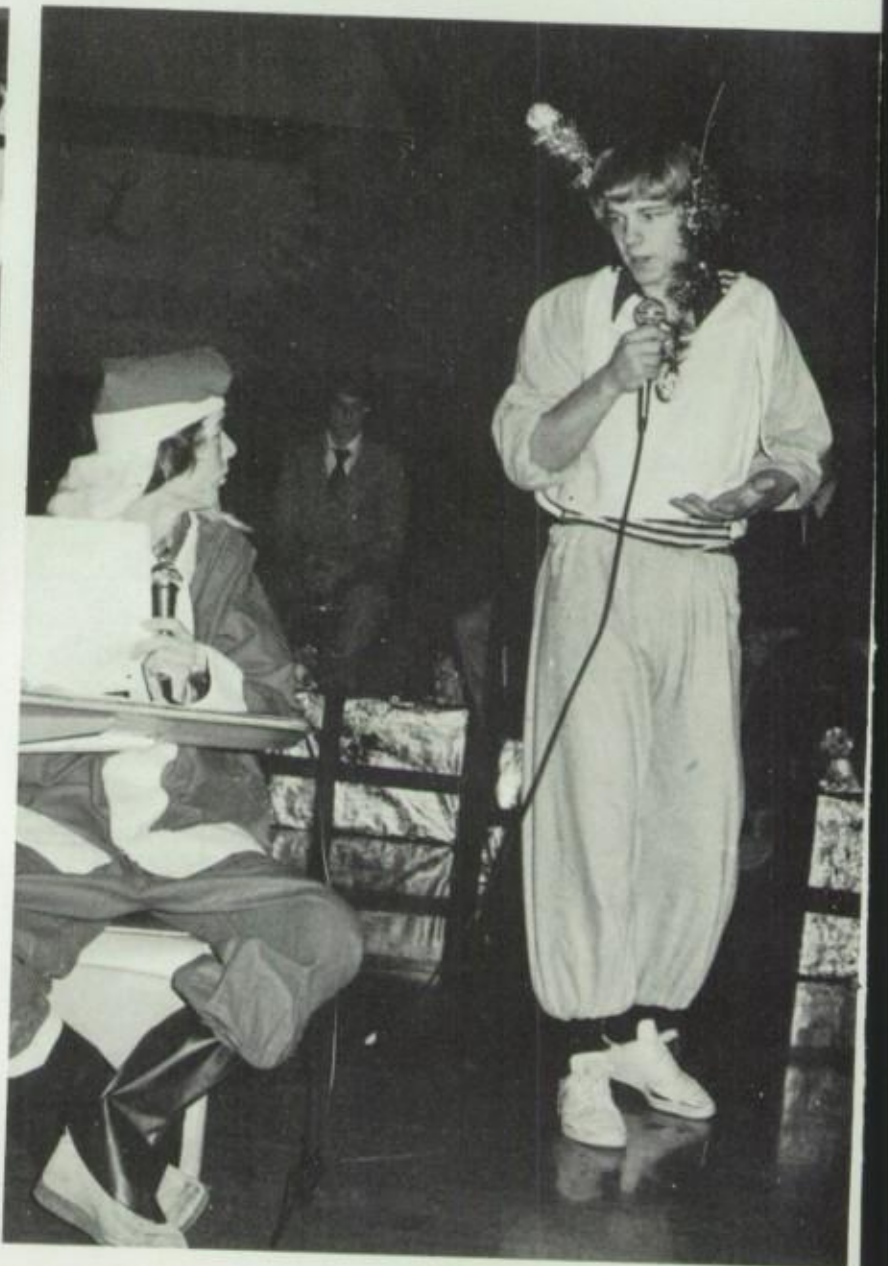

The variety of basketball accessible to spectators was diverse this season. Besides the usual school affiliated games, the City League team, the Lethargic 8 challenged the girls' varsity team as well as the faculty. The LOHS faculty also participated in a fund-raiser against the Lakeridge faculty team.

Late in February Lake Oswego experienced a unique solar eclipse. Publicity was widespread, school convened an hour early, but typical Oregon weather prevailed, and all that was seen was sudden darkness, clouds, and trees strangely swaying in the wind. However, almost everyone at school was able to witness the singular event on one of the many t.v.'s that were brought to school.

For the first time since 1976 entertainer Charles King returned to LOHS and put on an assembly for the student body. King sang and then involved everyone in a song that created a momentary feeling of unity and a manifestation of King's love for people.

Beautiful, sunny, and warm weather ushered in spring vacation and the end of the winter season. After a week's rest it was time to summon up some will power and head into the last and longest stretch of the school year; for the seniors, their final . . .

QUEEN CHARLOTTE REIGNS

Christmas activities began with the traditional canned food drive and continued with the door-and tree-decorating contests. And to personify the Christmas spirit, each class elected princesses. Freshmen Molly Nothman and Marie Fleck, sophomores Val Lomax and Debbie Taplett, juniors Joan Mattison and Susan Cleaver, and seniors Camilla Lambertson, Charlotte Dietz, and Susan Morris represented Christmas for the children that the court visited at the Children's Hospital.

Activities continued with dress-up days and the preparing of Christmas stockings for the less fortunate children of the area. Christmas Carol Day, Red and Green Day, Gift Day, and Striped Day filled the hallowed halls with figments of holiday dreams. The Christmas Dance was put on by Omega and followed a Fantasy in Frost Theme. During a Coronation Break at the dance Charlotte Dietz was crowned Christmas Queen 1978.

After the annual Christmas Concert, Christmas activities closed down with the end of all the challenges and contests. The inter-class canned food competition was won by the seniors who brought in nearly half of the school's total. The seniors and the sophomores tied in the tree-decorating contest. Christmas stockings for the needy were collected and given to the Red Cross for distribution. The last day of school before vacation brought two inches of snow, leaving everyone with the hope of a White Christmas.

WEATHER COOLS SPIRIT WEEK SPIRIT

An ice storm that hit Lake Oswego and left widespread damage and destruction in its wake also left its mark on Spirit Week activities. For four days just prior to the week's festivities, school was closed and communication to the student body non-existent. The rally did their best with the time they had, though, and on the first day back notified the student body that the week was dedicated to "Lakers Making History." Tuesday was devoted to the "Sock Hop" fifties, Wednesday to the "Hippy" sixties, Thursday to the "Disco" seventies, and Friday to the "Space-Age" future.

A Spirit Week Court was elected by the student body from the faculty. Rikki Lee, Carole Heath, Doris Popple, Larry Bowman, Jess Rhodes and Larry Rodriguez were introduced at a pep assembly. The faculty then chose Doris Popple and Jess Rhodes as the monarchs.

Spirit Week ended with two home basketball games against Gresham and West Linn and an after-game dance on Saturday night.

PAUL — KING OF HEARTS

Valentines centered around the Frog-Prince theme this year. Each class elected representatives that were magically transformed into princes by the kiss of a doll-escort. The lucky thirteen were seniors Gordy Wiltshire, John Wendland, and Paul Lindstedt, juniors Scott Bullock, Andy Schenk, and Dave Bushnell, sophomores Bob Burrow, Henry Matheson, and Dave Walker, and freshmen Mark Taplett, Mike Riedl, Eric A. Hansen, and Jim Englerdt.

Mistresses of Ceremonies Tracy Gardner and Emily Young opened the Valentines celebration by letting balloons fall on "The Prince Is Right" stage where the frog-princes were announced. The emcees then polka-ed to the dance on Saturday night to crown King of Hearts Paul Lindstedt.

Organizations

TWO NEW ORGANIZATIONS AT LOHS

The student body, through their Senate, chartered two new organizations at LOHS this year. The Flim Club, chaired by Mike Meyers, bases its existence on the appreciation of movies. Activities for members included the sponsoring of after-game movies which were quite successful.

Earth Rights was the other club established this year. Earth Rights follows in the footsteps of Greenpeace and other environmentally concerned organizations.

The Fire Squad was led this year by senior Monty Stenberg. Its members were trained to be off like a shot at the sound of a fire alarm to evacuate the school in the event of a real alarm.

Thespian Troupe #2500 was directed this year by seniors Charlotte Dietz and Susie Stageberg and junior Karin Shields. The Thespians responded to a desperate call to sponsor the Valentine's Dance this year and did an excellent job on such short notice.

LOHS's foreign exchange club, AFS, sponsored senior Palmira Monzon this year. Palmira is from La Paz, Bolivia. Kajse Gannve, also a senior, was a private exchange student from Gothenborg, Sweden. AFS was headed by Sharon Tannler.

This year's Assembly Committee was headed by Carolyn Ruminski. From Homecoming to May Fete Carolyn and other members creatively decorated the gym in the spirit of the seasons.

The Orientation Committee was at the beck and call of the Counseling Office this year. Chaired by Susie Stageberg and Paul Lindstedt, the committee took on the responsibilities of introducing new students to LOHS.

The Traffic Committee under the direction of Dave Buettner sponsored a bill in the Senate that received a very unpopular response. Though the Senate approved the parking fines, complaints were loud in the same body when a record number of tickets were issued one day.

As dictated by tradition, Lake Oswego students assembled Thanksgiving baskets and collected canned food at Christmas, and as per tradition, the Community Service Committee coordinated the events. The committee, led by Nancy Omundson and John Rudi, also sponsored two blood drives with the Red Cross.

Susan Martin headed this year's Booster Committee. The committee assisted the Cabinet in publicizing activities by preparing a show case for the front hall.

In charge of all elections except Valentines this year was Tim Crew as chairman of the Elections Committee. Equipped with ballot boxes, padlocks, and new class signs, the four members of this group dutifully kept their secrets.

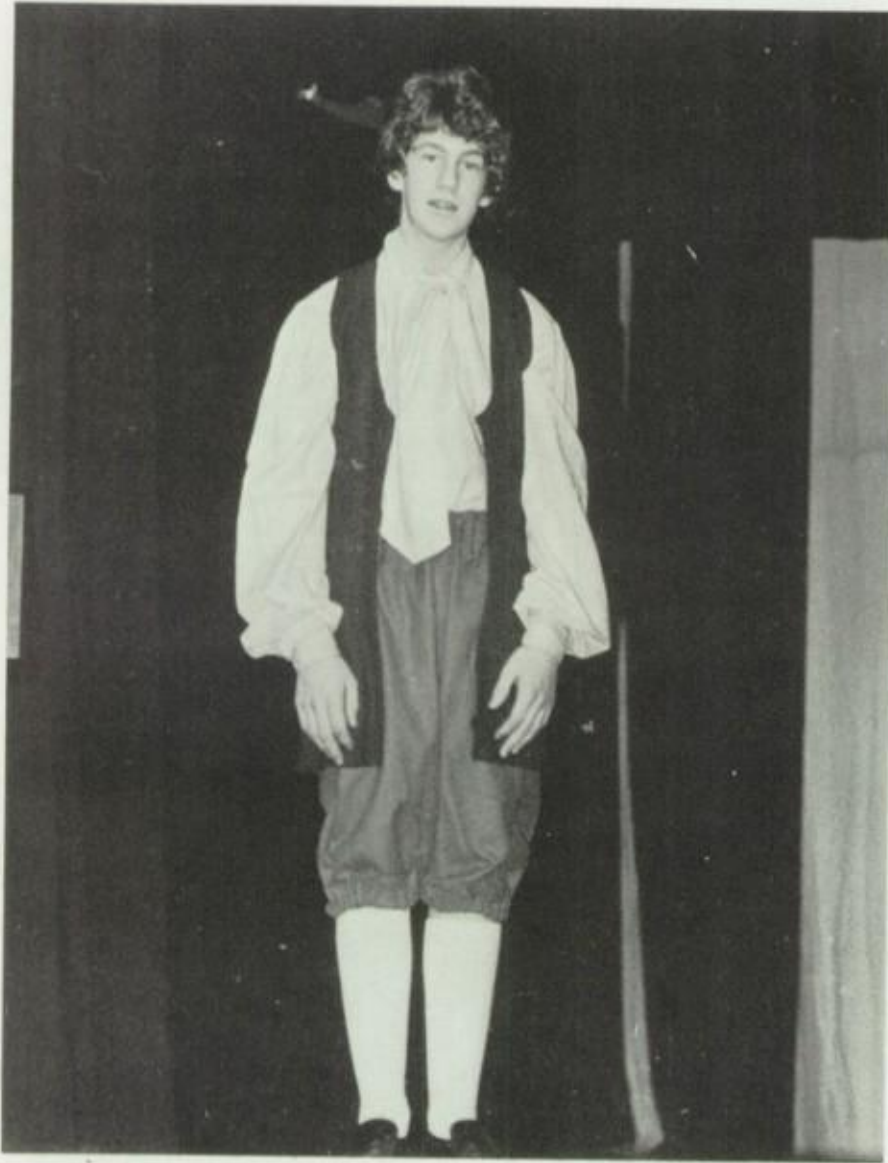

DECA or the Distributive Education Club of America had two members this year. The sole activity for president John Wendland and vice-president Pat Melone was the State DECA Conference in the spring.

This year's winter drama was a play out of the theme of the American woman or The American Dame. Twenty actors and actresses combined their talents in putting on short sketches about the evolution of the woman in the United States. A slide show of historical subjects accompanied the sketches, and presentations of quotations about the role of a woman supplemented the action.

The cast and crew overcame the hectic schedule of the season and put on an excellent performance that was well received each night.

Basketball

The 1978-79 Boys' Basketball team had an excellent season. The team finished the year with a fine 20-5 record, the Wilco League championship, and an opportunity to play in the state tournament.

Hard work and the desire to excel paid off with a 38-32 victory over Lakeridge in the Wilco League championship game. The atmosphere of the game was truly generated by the strong support of both student bodies.

The season was initiated with opening weekend wins over Sunset and Milwaukee. Other highlights were two strong defensive and offensive games against Gresham, which paved the way to the Columbia Division title, the single game records of 90 team points and Bob Owen's 39 individual points against The Dalles. Bob's individual honors included the first team selection for the Columbia Division, the Wilco League, the all-Metro team, the all-State team, and selection for the All-Star game. Jim Livesay was chosen second team Columbia Division, and Tom Beech received honorable mention recognition.

Although its performance in the state tournament was disappointing, the experience of participating in the competition was exciting for the players and the student body. The losses could be attributed to poor team shooting.

The Laker team was captained by Derek Warren, Jim Livesay, and Bob Owen. These seniors leave a challenge and an example for the underclassmen. There will be seven lettermen returning next year and some fine prospects from the successful junior varsity squad to compete in a new league.

J.V. BOYS' BASKETBALL

This year's Junior Varsity team completed the season with a strong 18-4 record. It was a satisfying year, but many of the players felt they had the potential to do even better. Their success, however, reflects the strength of the basketball programs at LOHS.

The team was led in scoring by Jeff Helm, Gerry Graves, and Terry Wheeler. One of the keys to its success was the team's dominance of the backboards. The Lakers held a considerable edge over their opponents in rebound statistics and total points scored.

Many of this year's players will be competing for positions on next year's varsity roster. If the J.V. team's performance is an indication, Laker basketball should be strong again next season.

Varsity Girls

This year's version of Laker basketball was one that had many promising moments. Achieving their best season record ever, 17 wins against 6 defeats, the Lakers displayed at times the greatness that could be theirs in the future. Led by junior Dar Davis, who averaged 13.7 points and 10.0 rebounds per game, the Lakers placed second in the very competitive Wilco League Columbia Division. Dar was chosen 2nd team Columbia Division and honorable mention all-Metro for her play this year. Supporting Darlene were juniors Steph Heisler and Amy Bullard. Stephanie was probably the best ball handler on the team, and Amy has yet to realize her full potential. Three seniors helped the Lakers throughout the season, team captain Deb Fitzhugh, Shell King, and Tina Fauvelle. All three will be missed, especially Tina for her greatness on defense. Two sophomores, Kathy Strickler and Kelly Dischinger, were also instrumental in the Laker success.

Overall, the year was one to remember, and with more experience next year could be even better. "Our goal this year was to make the Wilco play-offs; next year our goal is the state tournament," commented Darlene Davis. With hard work and more improvement, the Lakers may just reach that goal.

J.V. GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Despite a disappointing 5-17 record, it was a rewarding season for this year's junior varsity participants. The girls lacked experience coming into the season but improved considerably as the season progressed.

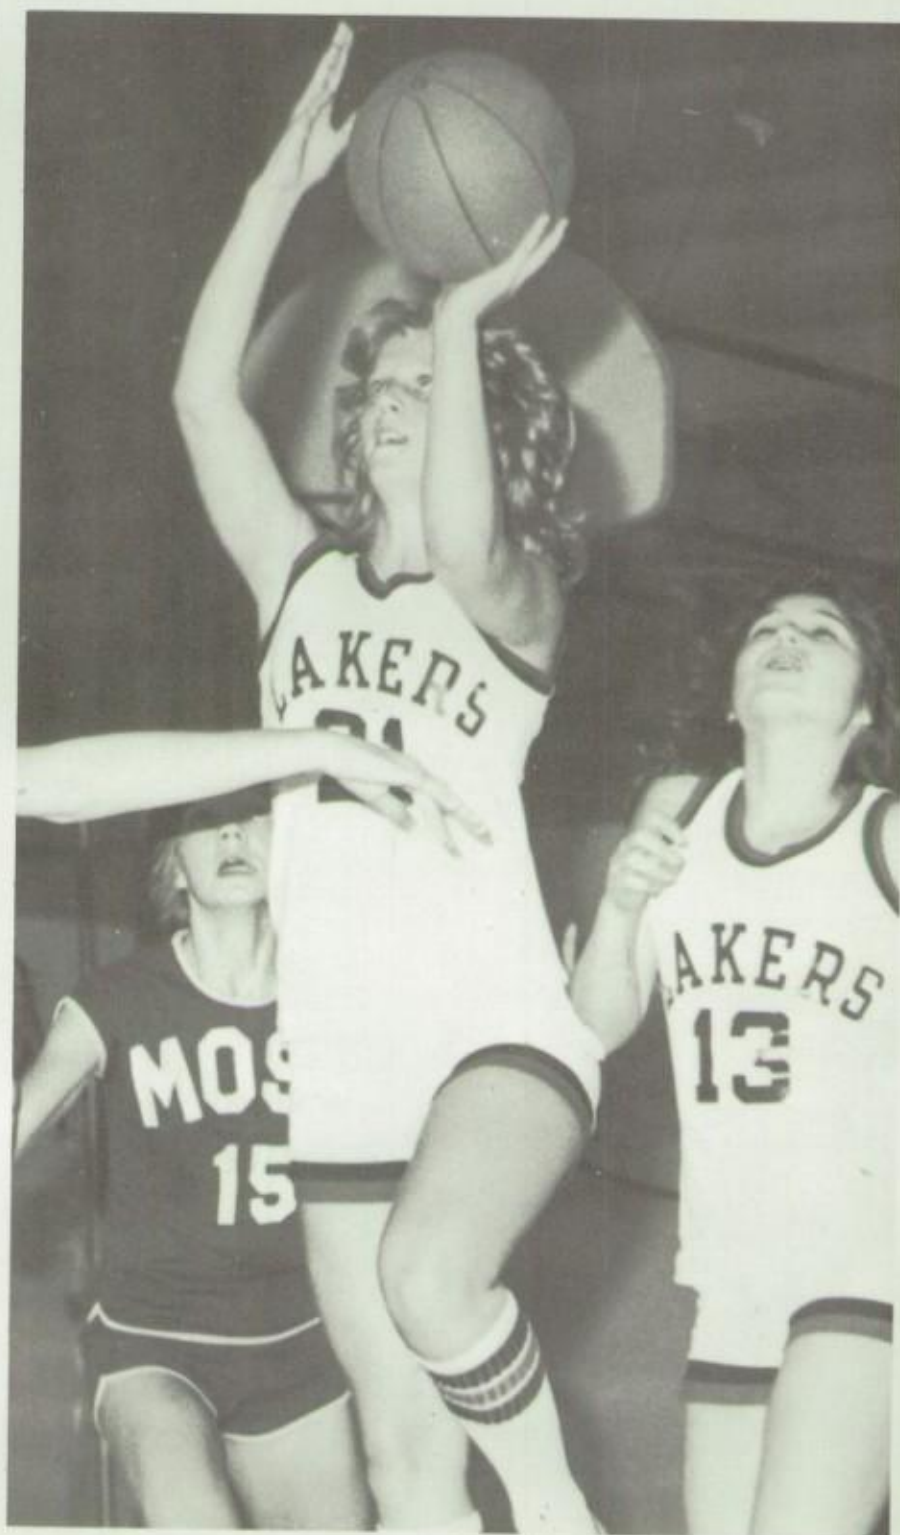

One of the highlights was an exciting come-from-behind 33-30 overtime victory over Lakeridge. Another were the two final victories that reflected the team's improvement. The team's aggressive defensive play kept most of the games close and competitive, and many weren't decided until the final buzzer.

Individual achievements included fine efforts by Molly McCloskey as the leading scorer, Sheri Wise as top rebounder, and steady defensive play by Linda Brock, Kris Arnston, and Cathy Baldwin.

The team was definitely young and inexperienced, but what it lacked in finesse was compensated for by hustle. Next year these girls should add some extra depth to the Laker basketball program.

FRESHMEN

After losing their first game, the Freshmen Girls' Basketball team managed to win 18 straight games to end their season with a fine 18-1 record. With a spirited team effort, along with consistent scoring by Teri Murawski and Noel Ainsworth, the Laker girls outscored their opponents 779 to 401. Each of the eight players can be proud of their contribution to an outstanding season.

SOPHOMORE BOYS'

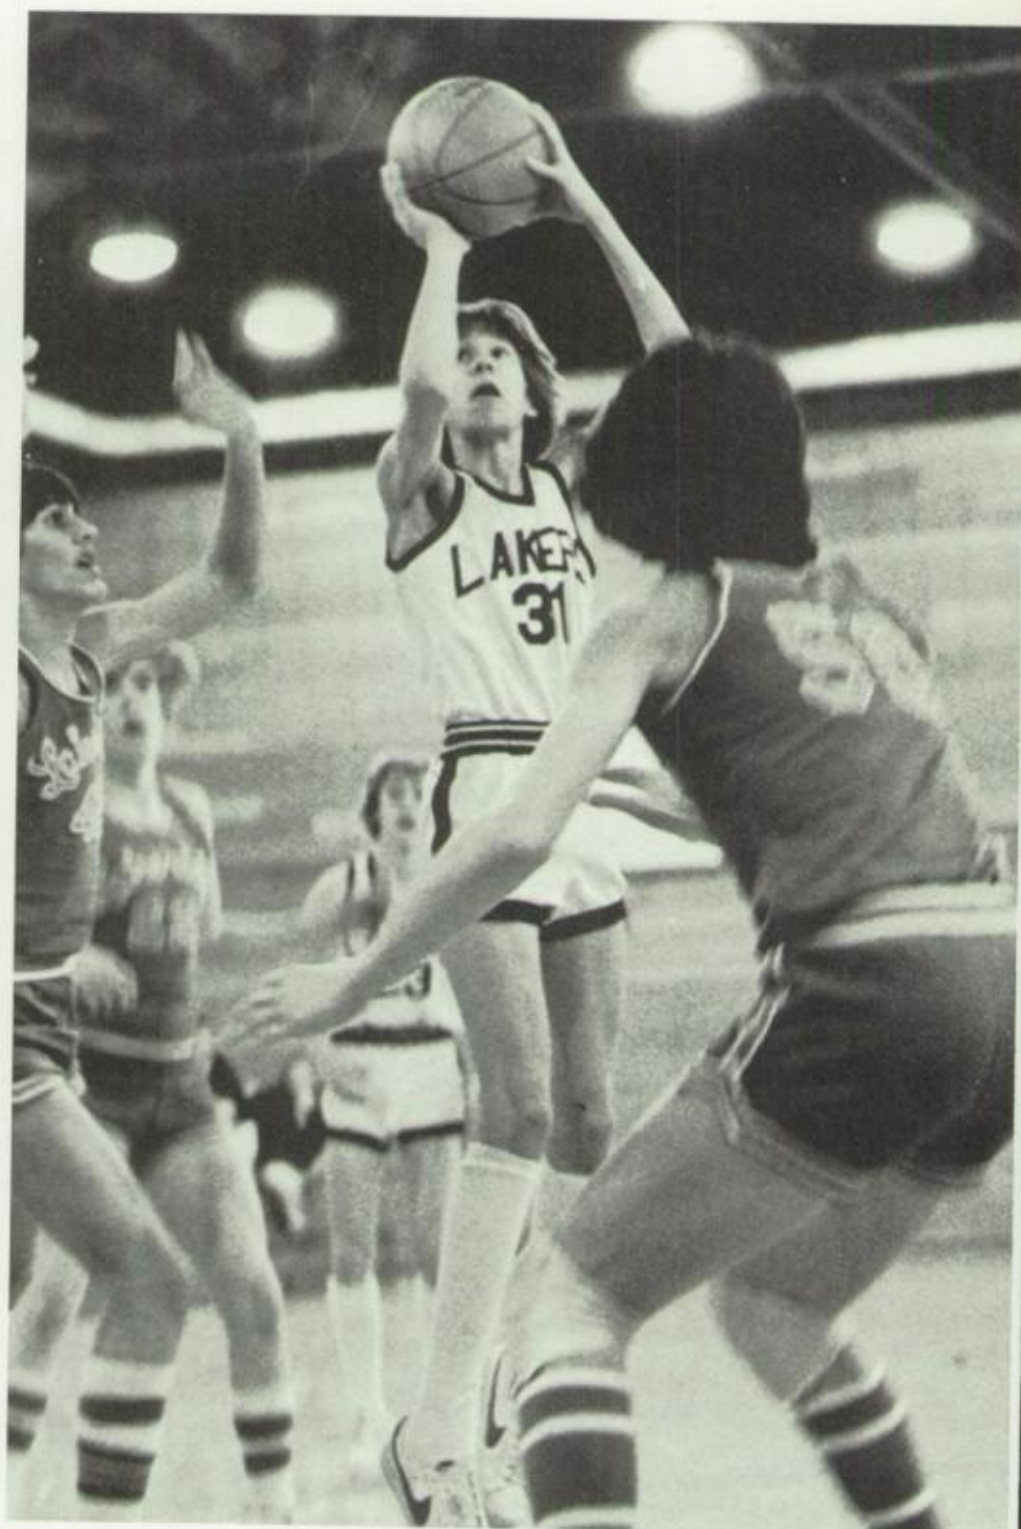

The Laker Sophomore team completed the season with a fine 15-5 record including 10 consecutive wins. The Lakers averaged only 46.8 points a game, but because of a tenacious defense, only allowed 41.5 to be scored by opponents. The Laker starting five were usually Phil Bolstad, Doug Haas, Neal Malagamba, Doug Nosler, and Jeff Bowman. The others did a good job in reserve positions.

The Lakers led their opponents in all positive categories. Doug Haas paced the team in scoring and rebounding.

Highlights of the year were the ten game winning streak, the revenge win over a good Rex Putnam team after an earlier loss, containing Lakeridge, a team with a 70 point scoring average, to 37, and come-from-behind wins over Tigard and Oregon City.

FROSH NAVY

Below: Tom Handy competes under the boards.

The Laker Navy freshmen achieved an outstanding record of 15 wins against only 4 defeats. The team was characterized by a tough, aggressive defense, good shooting, and precise offensive execution. They held their opponents to an average of only 40 points per game while scoring 55 themselves. Forwards Randy Schiff and Terry Dischinger were the leading scorers, Tom Handy led in rebounding, and Steve Schade, Jim Englerdt, and Scott Edwards handled the ball well and played good defense. Mike Christiansen, Rowdy Campbell, and Jeff Sadorus provided solid bench strength.

The season was climaxed with a defeat of Lakeridge's previously unbeaten team.

FROSH WHITE

Sparked by the steady play of leading scorer Kory Harlan (18 points per game), wing Glenn Hoffinger, and point guard Tim Beals, the freshman White team completed its successful 14-4 season against Metro and Wilco League competition with an exciting overtime victory against Lakeridge. Another season highlight was a come-from-behind victory over Gardiner. With only seven players in uniform, the Lakers overcame a 15 point deficit at the end of three quarters to win by 3. Sound pressure defense held Laker opponents to an average of only 44 points per game.

Wrestling

The 1978-1979 Wrestling squad was a young one. Due to inexperience, the season must be considered a building year. The season's highlights centered around the fine performances of a few individuals. Team captain Tom Siefert led the way with a 19 win-2 loss record during the regular season. Others with impressive records were Leigh Dodson and Todd Fauvelle, who both had 16-4 records. Although the graduating seniors will be missed, Coach Edmonds commented that the experience gained this year will definitely result in improved performances in the future.

Swimming

The 1978-79 season was a success for the LOHS Swimming team. Both the Boys and the Girls were undefeated in league competition and finished the season as District Champions.

At the state competition the Girls' team finished second and the Boys' team finished fifth.

Susan Habernigg, a sophomore, led the swim team by climaxing her season with three All-American honors. The Girls' 400 meter relay also received honorable mention All-America recognition. The relay swimmers were Sally Martin, Gigi Hunt, Cidney Schildan, and Susan Habernigg.

The Boys' squad showed more depth than in previous years, thus creating a narrow margin in the competition for the team's high point winner. Loren Chin was the eventual winner, as he amassed 152 points toward the Laker cause throughout the year. The Lakers are looking forward to an even stronger team next year. However, they will miss the contributions of departing seniors Eben Swett, Scott Bussey, Chip Buxton, Nanette Ochs, and Carolyn Ruminski.

Strong returning lettermen include Doug Moshofsky, Loren Chin, Eric Gwin, Kent Frederickson, Bob Burrow, and Tim Talbot for the boys, and Susan Habernigg, Carolyn Brown, Cidney Schildan, Gigi Hunt, Joan Cunningham, Sally Martin and Cathy Brown for the girls.

Ski Team

Both the Boys' and Girls' Ski teams worked hard in training and on their own initiative to become one of the strongest teams ever assembled at LOHS. The lack of slalom experience hurt the overall results, however. Some good underclassmen should form a strong nucleus for next year's team.

The Boys' Ski team established a third place position in the Wilco League early in the season. Mark Sherman was first in the giant slalom event and sixth in the slalom for the Wilco League. He also finished third in the giant slalom at the state tournament. Tom Whiteford was selected by Coach Casey as the most improved skier for 1978-79 ski year.

The girls had a fantastic giant slalom year. After finishing second in the Mt. Hood Championships, the Lakers went on to finish ninth in the state tournament. Darcy Fix received a third place Wilco League All-Star award. Suzanne Tarro improved considerably over the season.

Wolverhampton Exchange

The following Lake Oswego students and staff hosted Wolverhampton students: Craig Abernathy (David Haddock), Carolyn Brown (Sue Marker), Bob Burrow (Mark Hand), Scott Cameron (Neil Skeldon), Robin Clautice (James Goodyear and Soi Heng Lee), Neil Ehman (Scott Sandhu), Tina Fauvelle (Shirley Cain), Julie Gomena (Tracey Blackhurst), Adele Hitchcock (Kathryn Hayhurst and Julie Tuckley), Sally Martin (Tracey Haldearn), Laurie Mastous (Gayner Dudwell and Dawn Longmore), Henry Mathison (Andy Hipgrave), Nancy McDonald (Carol Rowley), Roxanne Mercer (Garry Dean), Angela Normand (Melanie Smith), Robin Reynolds (Julie Shaw and Debbie Shemmell), Betsy Schenk (Steve Millman), Karin Shields (Liz McCarthy), Jenifer and Tom Simpson (Keith Charlton), Brian Smith (Ian Simmons), Dave Smith (Martin Bullcock), Mr. L. C. "Chuck" Smith (Wendy Heath and Carol Stallard), Heidi Streeter (Elaine Woods), Karen Wyffels (Neil Bradford and Sally Hart-hill).

This spring Lake Oswego High School was the scene of a unique foreign exchange program. Thirty students and five faculty members from Highfield School in Wolverhampton, England, became part of LOHS for three interesting weeks.

The exchange idea was born out of the desire of Highfield headmaster Tony Bowyer to set up an exchange between his high school and one comparable to it in the United States. After visiting thirty-one high schools, Mr. Bowyer arrived at LOHS because of a soccer team exchange program. He chose L.O. because of the equal enthusiasm shown by Dr. Lindersmith to the exchange idea.

While they were here the students lived with high school family hosts and attended classes, just as a typical transfer student would. The school sponsored field trips to points of interest in the area, including excursions to the Trojan Nuclear Power Plant on the day after the accident in Pennsylvania, Bonneville Dam, Timberline, OMSI, Chief Lalooska, Fort Vancouver, and the State Capital. Other trips with their host families allowed the students to see even more of the Northwest. The visit couldn't have been complete, however, without a challenge being issued between the schools for a soccer/football game (depending upon one's nationality). Unfortunately, the American forces fell to the British, but a rematch is scheduled for next year in England.

Discipline was one of the great differences that the English students observed. In England the students wear uniforms to school, cannot talk back to teachers, and are much more formal in their relations with elders. Most took advantage of the freedom they enjoyed here, knowing that when they returned, they would once again be in their accustomed classes and following their normal programs.

The three weeks of their visit went by quickly, with parties, trips, and school. Their final day was celebrated with an extended pep assembly, during which the English visitors got a view of Laker spirit, and LOHS got a taste of English appreciation for American hospitality. To show their appreciation, the British contingent presented the school with a cut-glass goblet engraved with the seals of Highfield and Lake Oswego, a plaque for the football/soccer match, and a sculpted bust of Dr. Lindersmith, all of which were placed in the showcase for display.

Soon after the assembly was over, farewells were exchanged between new international friends, and the visitors from around the world who had filled our ears with their delightful accents, our classes with new faces, and our minds with new insights departed as suddenly as they had arrived. The gifts in the showcase momentarily recall their presence, but the quiet classes, the emptier halls, and the missing faces are constant reminders of how much those thirty-five people meant to their hosts. Hopefully, next year an American contingent from LOHS can reciprocate their visit and make the Wolverhampton exchange program a Lake Oswego tradition.

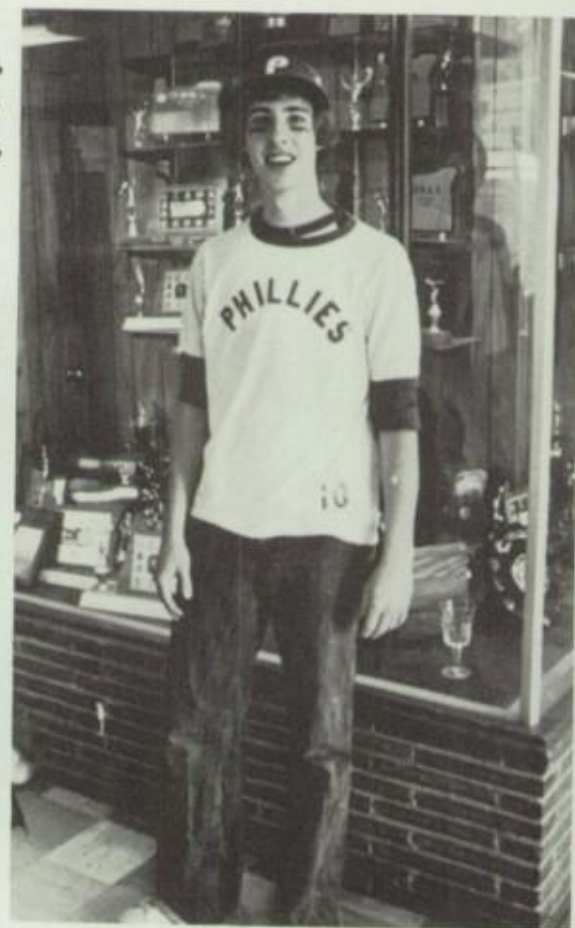

May Fete

"A LITTLE NIGHT MUSIC"

*There's a little touch of music in the atmosphere tonight —
I'm not sure that I hear it,
But I think I'm getting near it,
And I'm sure there's something lovely that is almost within sight.*

*After all, it's finally springtime and the evening's fresh and light —
And there's music of some kind,
I can hear it in my mind,
And if only I could follow it, the music in the night.*

— Anna-Lisa Tokola

Carolyn Ruminski and escort Bob Szeimies.

May Fete 1979, "A Little Night Music," opened with the selection of ten senior princesses. Cathleen Tarro, Sally Griffith, Kim Martin, Marcia Badgley, Jackie Crump, Carolyn Ruminiski, Michelle Ney, Bonny Reardon, Ann Souther, and AFS student Palmira Monzon represented the class of '79 on the May Fete Court.

Activities for the week included Looney Tune Day, Musical Theme Day, Wide World of Sports Day, Teacher-Senior Switch Day, and a Senior-Faculty softball game. During Switch Day seniors had lunchroom as well as faculty room privileges, and they held administrative meetings and issued a faculty newsletter. The seniors were victorious during the double-lunch softball game later in the week. Of the dress-up days, Wide World of Sports Day was easily the most popular.

Following tradition, May Fete was highlighted by the class skit presentations and the coronation of the new May Fete Queen. On Thursday evening 1978 Queen Jill Rinde returned to reign and to watch the Court dance. On Friday before the student body she crowned 1979 Queen Marcia Badgley as her successor. Gifts from each class and from the faculty were presented to the new Queen; from the faculty, an engraved locket; from the freshmen, a music box; from the sophomores, a stick pin symbolizing the Queen's scepter, from the juniors, tickets to THE WIZ, and from the seniors, a quilt depicting May Fete '79.

Friday night Queen Marcia and her Court reigned at the dance. The band, Sequel, played under the backdrop depicting the May Fete theme. Decorations also included a mural covering the bleachers in the main gym.

The freshmen received much praise for their participation in May Fete this year. In their skit, entitled "Backwards Traveler," Dr. Streak (Carmen Warren) removed music from the world by taking the records from the 50's, 60's, and 70's. Steve and Susie, played by John Hensala and Molly Nothman, were on the trail of Dr. Streak as she escaped back through time. When they had finally caught up with Dr. Streak in the 50's, she had discovered the art of dancing to the music, and the world's music was restored. The director of the freshmen skit was Tim Beals.

SOPHOMORES

Contributing to the intense competition of May Fete '79, the sophomores presented a variety of music from different eras in their skit. Barby (Paula Flowers) invited her date Dermont (Garret Acott) in one evening, and he began talking with Barby's mother (Carin Hearn) and grandmother (Teresa Costanzo) about their younger days. As a young girl played by Shannon Newlin, the grandmother conveyed the music of the 20's. The music of the 50's was enacted through the youthful memories of Barby's mother (Laurie Trulock). After Dermont had listened to tales of the music from the past, he went out to discover disco and the music of the 70's. The sophomore skit was directed by Vonda Dominguez, Mike Field, April Poertner, and Paula Flowers.

JUNIORS

The main character in this year's junior skit was Lester (played by Charlie Bach). Lester's fantasy was to "paint the town red," and with the help of the Godmother of Good Times he did just that. The first thing Lester saw in town were the stores, the Grateful Dead Funeral Home, Neil Diamond's Jewelry Store, and Queen Hair Salon. Lester then proceeded to fall in love with Penelope (Margaret Evans), whom he saw singing at the night club. The two love birds strolled through town, stopping at Jimmy Buffet's Buffet and the funeral home. When his curfew suddenly ends, Lester loses his glasses in the chaotic rush home. Lester's experience as a swinger ends and he returns to his clumsy old self. But when his doorbell rings he is reunited with Penelope, and in a sense each of their dreams come true. The junior skit was directed by Susan Cleaver.

SENIORS

This year's winning effort, the senior skit, entailed a strange mission for adventuresome Grace Note (Beth Klinkenberg) and Professor Von PitchanRhythm (Eric Johnson). Their purpose was to expose Wally's (John Klinger) One-Notes to a variety of musical types. The One-Notes first met the Jazz section, in which Derek Warren and his girls sang with a jazz beat. Next, the distinguished Opera troupe bellowed out their song and were followed by the Rock group, who shook everyone in their seats. The final group, the Country singers, danced and twirled an impressive display. The One-Notes divided over which type they liked best, and an argument ensued. Grace and the professor resolved the dispute and everyone became congenial enough to end with a final farewell in this, the senior's last May Fete. Jenifer Simpson organized and directed the large group of seniors who contributed to a victorious production.

Band

The instrumental music program, though young, showed marked improvement over the year. The Marching Band performed during Homecoming in the parade through Lake Oswego and with the First Mates during halftimes at football games, including a playoff game at Civic Stadium. The Pep Band supported the soccer, football, and basketball teams by playing at pep assemblies and at games. During the annual Christmas Concert the Orchestra, conducted by Monica Valentine, made their first appearance at LOHS. The Stage Band was involved in the spring musical entertainment ANYTHING GOES.

As the year's activities drew to an end, band director Tom Kranovich gave special recognition to members of the program at the Fine Arts Dessert. Senior Erik Nordahl received the John Philip Sousa Award. As drum major, Erik also participated in the O.S.U. Drum Major Camp and placed first among entrants. The Louis Armstrong Jazz Award went to senior Dewitt Henderson. During the year De was also named the outstanding piano soloist at the Wilco League Stage Band Contest. The student conductor of the Pep Band, junior Mike Hilton, received the band's Gold Medallion in special recognition for his service. Band members also voted for outstanding members in their midst. Those commended by their peers were freshman Sue Luques, sophomore Joe Warren, junior Mike Hilton, and senior Eben Swett.

Windjammer Variety Show

The Windjammer Musical Variety Show was, as usual, a splendid success. The talent and sophistication that was displayed in this year's show awed and impressed the audience, which responded with standing ovations at the conclusion of all three performances.

The Variety Show, a miscellany of thirty-five numbers from twenty musicals, elicited the talents of the sixteen Windjammers, their accompanists Nancy Omundson, Philip Polsinelli, and John Sidall, choir director Sandra Miller, choreographers Milli Hoelscher and John Welty, and many other interested students, faculty, and community persons. The show took place cabaret style in the cafeteria, and although an extra performance was added, it sold out more than a week in advance.

Selections were performed from the musicals WEST SIDE STORY, ANNIE GET YOUR GUN, FIDDLER ON THE ROOF, THE SOUND OF MUSIC, 1776 and many others. Solos were sung by Charlotte Dietz, Caroline Collins, Mark Badgely, Troy Schmit, Dave Boring, Susie Stageberg, Scott Bussey, and Doug Mosofsky. Duets were performed by Susie Stageberg and Jay Larson, Dave Boring and Laura Leatherman, Camilla Lambertson and Doug Moshofsky, and by Marcia and Mark Badgely.

The Windjammers other activities for this year include the filming of an audition for the TONIGHT SHOW, appearing on a local television program, performing for civic groups, and traveling to California.

Madrigal Show

The Oswego Madrigal Singers held their annual concert late in May. The first half of their performance contained traditional Madrigal numbers as well as some more contemporary songs. A duet was performed by Mike Meehan and Mike Haugen entitled "The Turtle Dove," and Michelle Maurer had a solo part singing "Little Teatotalers."

The highlight of the evening came after intermission when the Madrigals sang P.D.Q. Bach's "Missa Hilarious." The nontraditional collection of movements featured a solo by Charlie Bach accompanied by a whistling chorus, and a solo by Tim Marshall accompanied by Charlie Bach on horn and Mike Meehan playing the flute.

The show played for two evenings, and its success was reflected by the full choir room audience for both performances.

Choir Concert

The final choir performance of the year, The Concert in the Park, took place in late May on a beautiful spring evening at George Rogers Park. The concert was preceded by a picnic for choir members and was followed by a roast of senior singers.

The concert featured each of the vocal groups from Lake Oswego High School performing at least one number. Both the Windjammers and the Madrigals sang songs from their respective variety shows performed earlier in the spring. The concert also marked the last event to be led by director Sandra Miller. Her students commended her kindness and dedication, and she leaves LOHS with many memories of an extraordinarily successful year of directing the many vocal music activities at the school.

The spring musical at L.O.H.S. this year was Cole Porter's Anything Goes. The story takes place on board a cruise ship sailing from New York to England. On board are the notorious Reno Sweeny and her six Angels, their friend impersonator Billy Crocker, his unsuspecting boss Elisha J. Whitney, Public Enemy #13 Moonface Martin and his sidekick Bonnie, and Sir Evelyn Oakley, his fiancée Hope Harcourt, and her mother Mrs. Harcourt.

As old friends, Reno and Billy perform "You're the Top" then join the rest of the ensemble at casting off in "Bon Voyage." After Billy discovers that his former flame Hope Harcourt is a passenger on the ship, he joins her in the moonlight for "It's Delovely." Bonnie quickly changes the mood with the tap number "Heaven Hop" along with the Angels and the crew. Thanks to Reno and Moonface, Billy obtains passport and passage on the ship which prompts the song "Friendship," but in helping Billy out Reno falls for Sir Evelyn and solos with "I Get a Kick Out of You." The first act concludes with the ensemble's performance of the title song "Anything Goes."

The second act opens with the revelation that Billy's passport belongs to "Public Enemy #1." Bonnie then leads the ensemble in "Let's Step Out," after which Sir Evelyn and Reno commit themselves to mischief in "Let's Misbehave." The highlight of the show is the spiritual number "Blow Gabriel, Blow" lead by Reno. From jail and deck Billy and Hope profess their love in "All Through the Night," then Moonface tries to lighten Billy's lovesick head with some comic relief in "Be Like the Blue Bird." Reno leads the Angels next in "Take Me Back To Manhattan" which is followed by a mass wedding scene in which all wrongs are put right and all loves unite. The ensemble then closes the show with the beautifully choreographed and performed finale.

Despite the busy season that demanded so much of the cast's time, the drama department finished its season with another excellent performance that received four well deserved standing ovations.

Prom

The 1979 Junior-Senior Prom was held at the Hilton Hotel in downtown Portland. The ballroom was decorated to the theme of "Place of Dreams."

Entertainment was two-fold at the prom. The Class of 1980 hired the band WESAK to provide music to dance to, but the crowd was also presented with Portland's Junior Rose Festival Court on the dance floor.

Refreshments for the people in tuxes and evening gowns were served by freshmen Molly Nothman, Nancy Rivers, Lisa Dodd, Teri Murawski, Lisa Lyons, Laurie Mason, Diane Jurney.

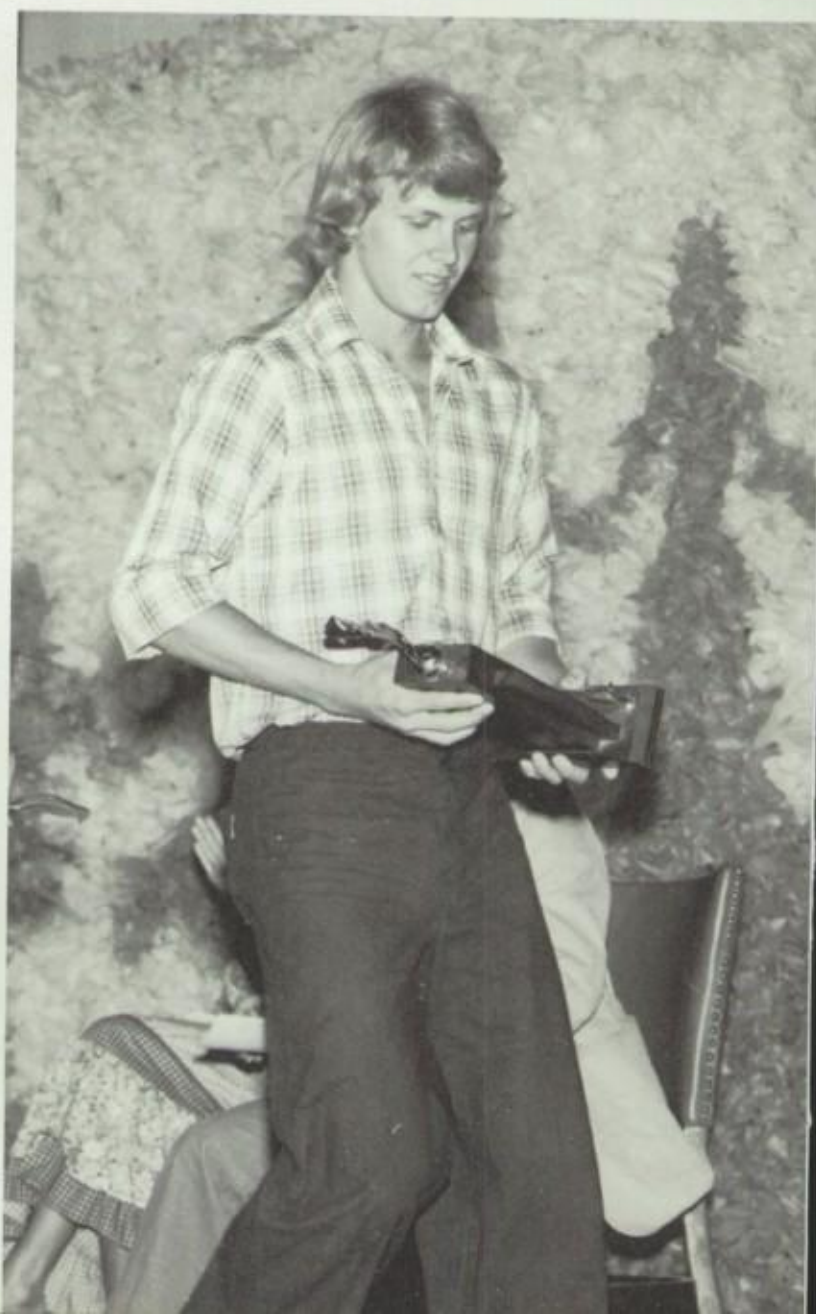

Honors Assembly

The annual Honors Assembly recognizing outstanding graduating seniors was held on June 6. John Klinger and Susie Stageberg, acting as master and mistress of ceremonies, oversaw the presentation of the numerous scholarships, honors, and awards earned by members of the class of 1979.

In return, the class of '79 made several presentations to the school. The Class Profile, Will, and Hall of Fame were read by seniors, after which the class gift was brought forth for unveiling. The gift, a circular stained glass window, was designed to hang in the window of the main office.

GRADUATION

Cheering crowds of well-wishers standing on the quay
Are waiting as the sailing ships are putting out to sea:
Clippers, schooners, brigantines, steamships, sloops,
and barks

On business, battle, exploration, escape, adventure,
larks;

Perhaps to distant harbors and perhaps to roam the sea.
The binding ropes unknotted by the people on the quay.

— Anna-Lisa Tokola

The weather dawned sunny and warm for the commencement exercises of the Class of 1979. Before a crowded football grandstand and field, the seniors marched in to the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance."

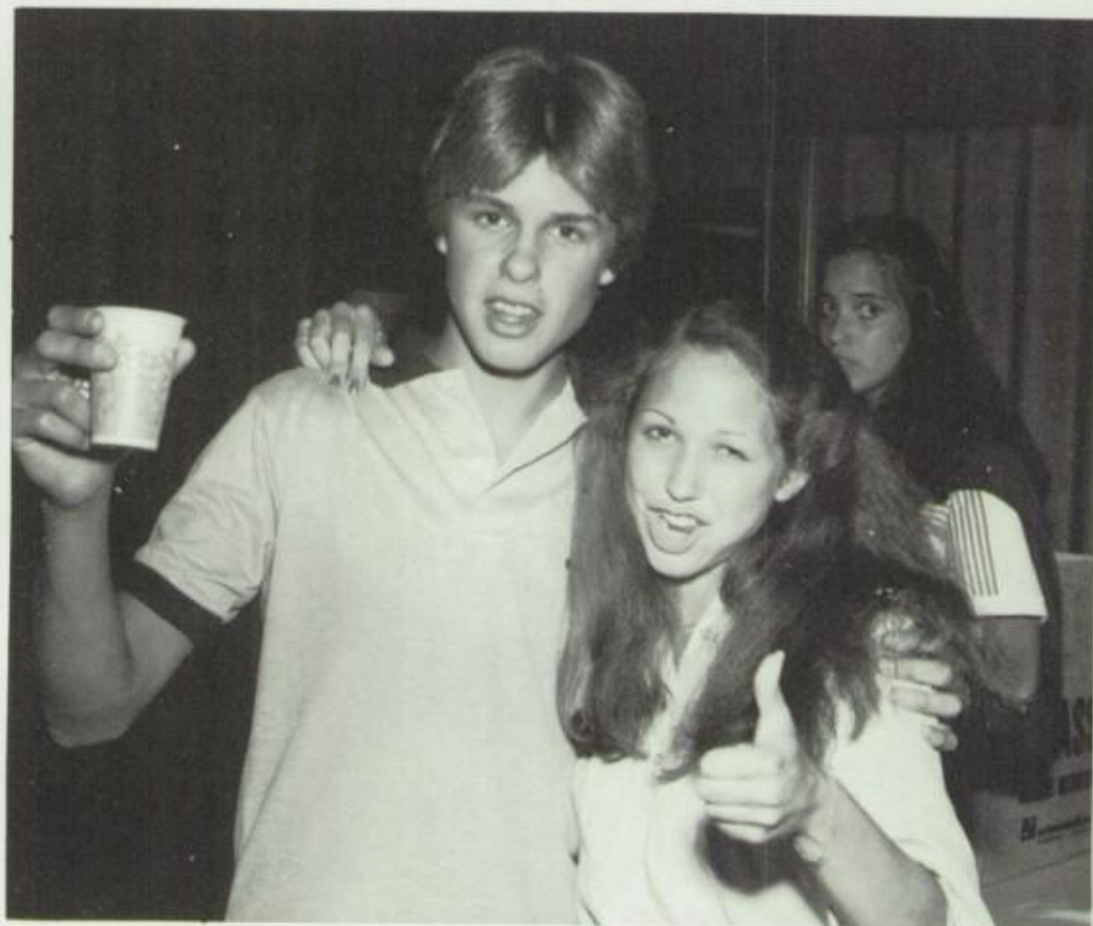

Speaking to the audience and to their class were Tim Berney and Mike Meyers with "A Challenge to Insularity" and "Decad'ends '79." The special guest speaker was Senator Bob Packwood, who gave an entertaining and meaningful talk on the qualities of leadership.

Student body president John Wendland in his final official appearance made a special presentation to the most dedicated faculty member of all. From the University of Idaho Alumni Society, a plaque was awarded to Mr. Jess Rhodes to honor his outstanding service in the field of education.

The purpose of the assembly was eventually accomplished with few hitches, caps lost, or names mispronounced. The diplomas were presented by School Board member Nancy Klinger, Superintendent Dr. Marv Evans, and Assistant Superintendent Dr. Kent Myers.

Leaving for the last time, the graduates made their exit to "Anchors Aweigh." Most made it only as far as the parking lot, though, as the senior party was still ahead.

GOOD TIMES '79

Following graduation the seniors gathered together one last time under the theme of their class motto — "Good Times, '79" — to be whisked away in buses to the senior party. The party, organized and sponsored by senior parents, was held this year at Bowman's Resort on Mt. Hood. The evening began with an hour and a half bus ride that included dinner served on fris-bees.

The party rooms were decorated with silhouettes of class members that provided an interesting guessing game. Entertainment came in the form of a dance band and a casino complete with black jack and craps tables. Winnings from the casino could be used to buy prizes ranging from baseball caps to hair dryers. The poker chips did no one any good after the party though.

Breakfast was served, bringing the gamblers and nappers together for a final meal before the long return home. The GOOD TIMES of the class of '79 ended where they often began, in the parking lot of Lake Oswego High School.

Spring Sports

1979 was a building year for the boys' track squad. Only six seniors competed this season. However, many of the younger team members showed considerable promise and will be returning to form the nucleus of a much more experienced squad next season.

Sickness and injuries kept the team's performance down early in the season and accounted for several of the close losses.

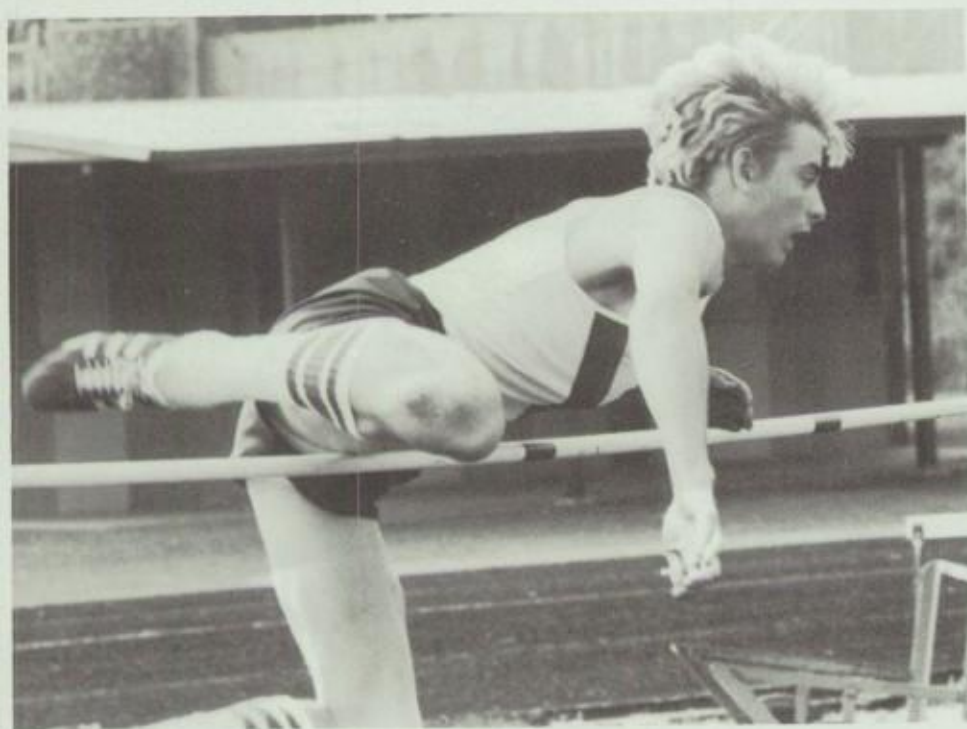

Highlights of the season were the dual meet victory over Columbia Division champion Barlow, some excellent individual performances at the District Meet, and the 4th place finish in the state meet by the 400 meter relay team of Brad Fairchild, Lee Miller, Monte Stenberg, and Dan Paget.

Individuals who qualified for the state meet were Gordy Wiltshire in the 1500 meters, Vance Blow in the 3000 meter run, and Mickey Stenberg in the 110 meter high hurdles.

Girls Track

The 1979 girls' track team was a young one, with only nine girls returning from the previous year's squad. However, the nine returnees and the 15 newcomers had a fine overall season.

Even though the Lakers lacked depth and experience, they completed the dual meet season with a respectable 4-4 record. This was possible because the girls possessed great competitive spirit and were willing to enter the events where they were most needed. Only Barlow was able to win more first place finishes in a dual meet than the Lakers.

At the district track meet the team finished fifth out of fifteen teams and qualified four girls for the state meet. New school records were established this year by Linda Brock in the 800 meters, Darlene Davis in the shotput and discus, Kelly Chandler in both the high and low hurdles, and by the 1600 meter relay team of Shelley Miller, Sheri Wise, Kelly Chandler, and Linda Brock.

Upper right: Freshman Denise Oka performed well in many of the field events, including the long jump.

BOYS

The boys' tennis team completed their 1979 season undefeated and also captured the Wilco League championship. The league title was won by upsetting a very strong Tigard team 4-1.

In district tournament play Doug Haas was runner-up in the singles category, and the doubles team of Jack Burke and Charley Davis also took second place. The three qualified for the state tournament, where they played some excellent tennis.

This year's squad continued the imposing Laker dominance of Wilco League tennis. The Lakers have lost only three league matches over the last eight years.

GIRLS

The Laker girls' tennis team had an excellent season. In one of the highlights of the season the Lakers came through with an outstanding performance to beat Lakeridge by a hard-fought 3-2 margin. The team went on to capture the Wilco League and District championships.

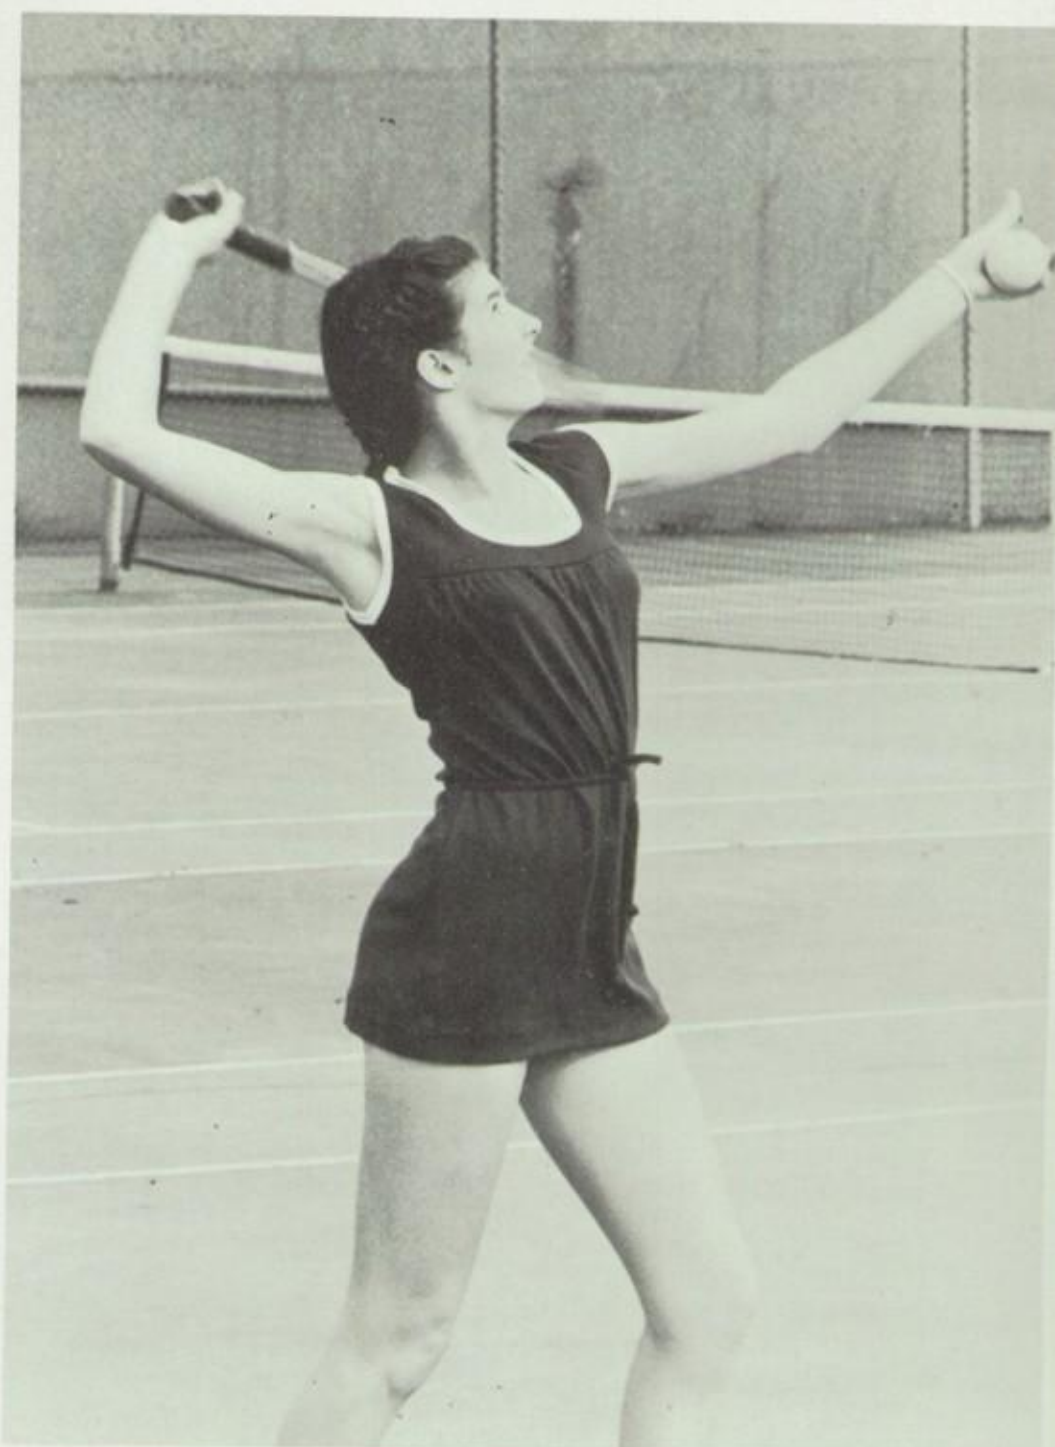

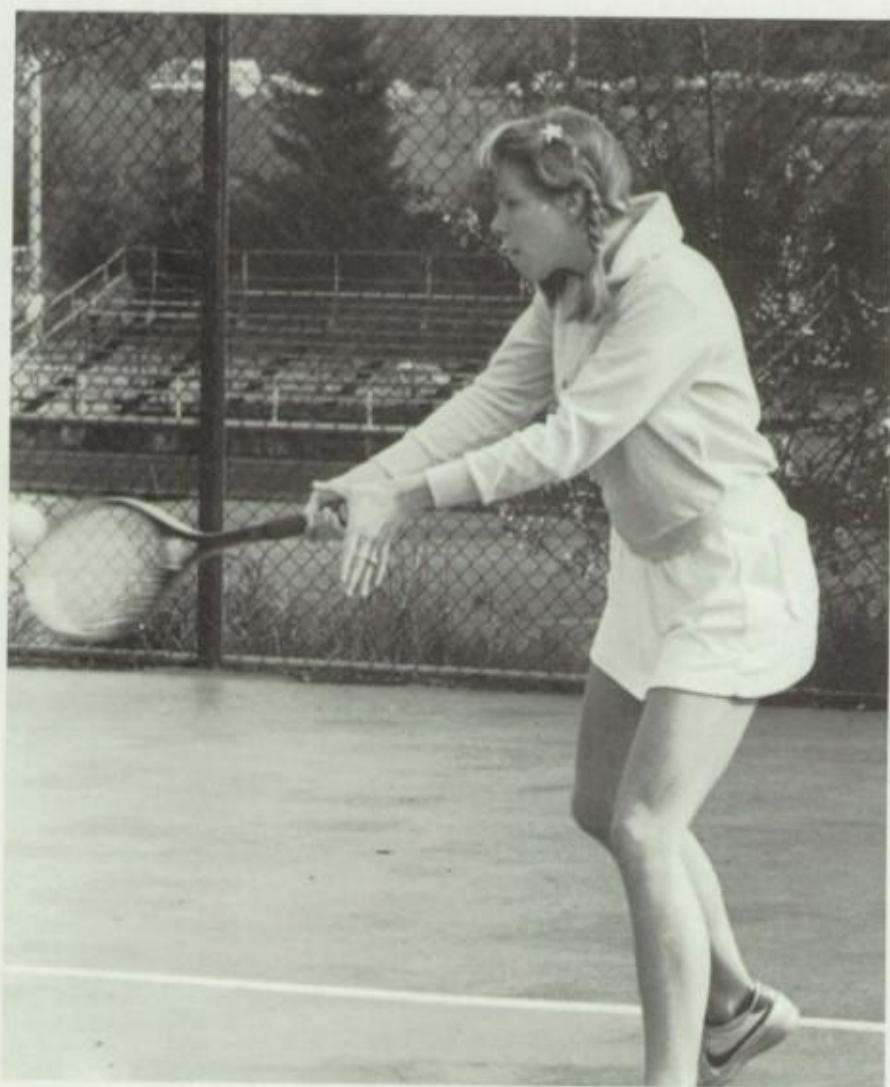

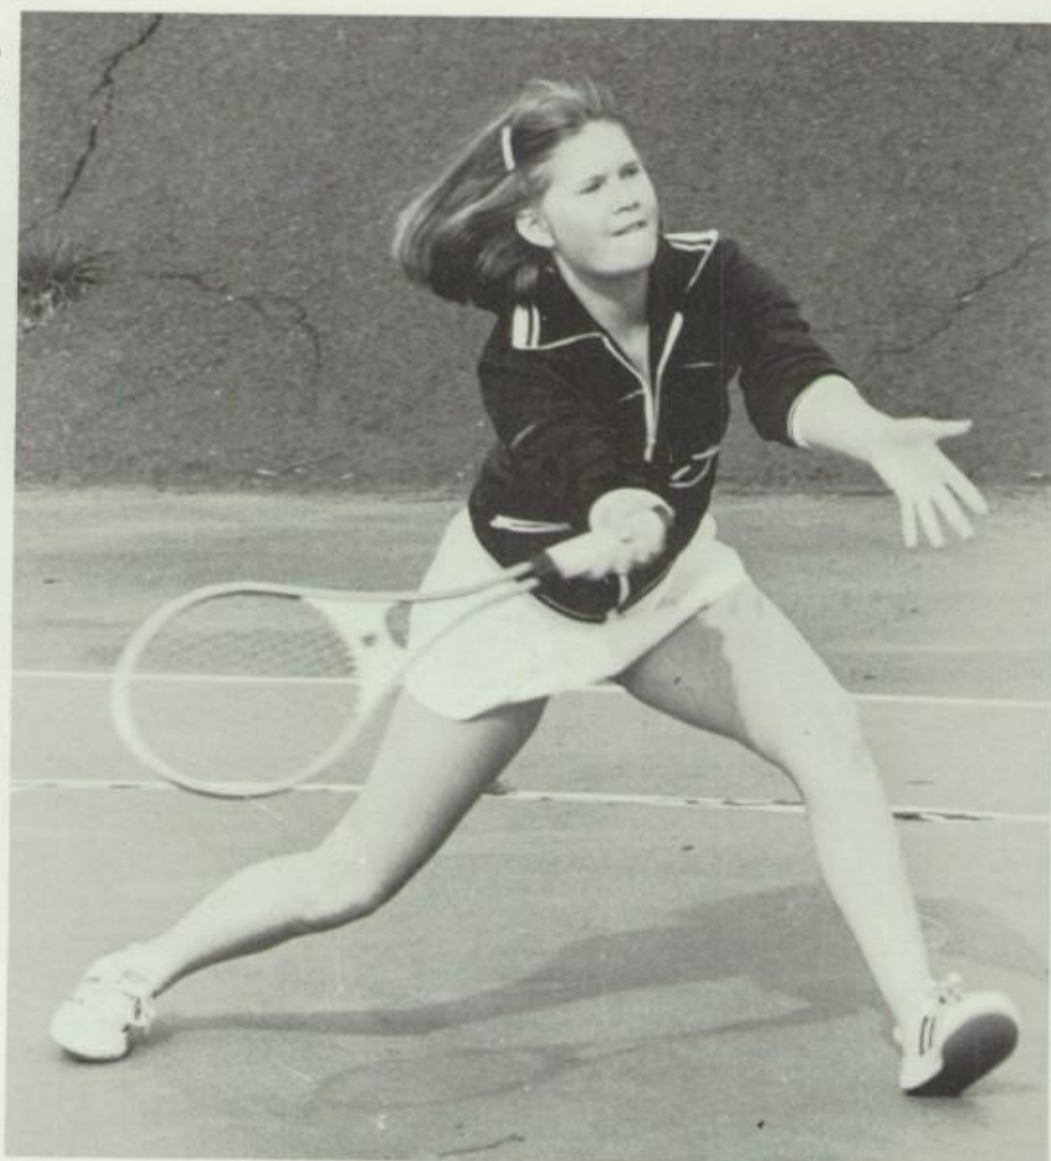

Individual performances of note were achieved by Holly Black, who was third in district singles at the #1 position; freshman Cherie Brambilla, who was undefeated at the #2 singles and a quarterfinalist at district; Lisa Lortz, who was undefeated at the #3 singles position; Tammy Hagen and Kelly McDermott, who finished 4th in district doubles and were semi-finalists in the consolation doubles at state; Sharon and Charlene Wolford, district doubles champions, and Lynne Arbuckle and Karen Kuhn, quarterfinalists in district doubles.

Girls Golf

The 1979 Laker girls' golf team continued as a power in league, district, and state competition. The girls compiled an 11-1 match record and finished second at District and sixth at the State tournaments. In addition, they were the only team this year to beat the Lakeridge team that captured first place in the State tournament.

Ann Souther and Jennifer Labs were selected to the All-District first team. Kristen Arnston and Julia Jennings led the team's performance at the District and State matches and were praised by Coach Mastroleo as the most improved players for the year. The steady play and leadership of senior Ann Souther will be missed, but with all the other girls returning next year the Lakers should again be a top contender.

Golf

1979 was another successful season for the boys' golf team as they captured the Columbia Division championship with a fine 13-1 record.

There were some impressive individual accomplishments as well. Jim Livesay received several honors. He was a member of the 1st team Columbia Division All-Star team, a 1st team district All-Star, 1st team Wilco League All-Star, and he earned the opportunity to represent Oregon in the National High School Golf Tournament in Orlando, Florida. Also, Bob Szeimies was selected to the second team Columbia Division All-Star squad, and Tim Juarez received recognition as a second team district All-Star.

The girls' softball team had a successful 1979 season. They compiled a 24-3, won the District 4 championship, and defeated Corvallis 8-2 in the opening round of the state tournament before being eliminated by Marshall in the second round. The Lakers also won two of three games in the Grant Invitational Tournament and placed third.

The pitching staff was led by junior Stephanie Heisler with an 11-2 record and an E.R.A. of 2.4. Senior Deb Fitzhugh had an 8-0 record. The combined pitching staff had an earned run average of 3.5 compared to their opponents 11.5.

Laker hitters compiled a team batting average of .391 and were paced by Cathy Van Gulik's .500 average, Andrea Teegarden's .489 and 53 RBI Deb Fitzhugh's .440, and Shelly King's .400. Tina Fauvelle led the team with 19 stolen bases.

The Lakers placed six individuals on the District 4 All-Star first team — Tina Fauvelle, Deb Fitzhugh, Cathy Van Gulik, Steph Heisler, Shelly King, and Andrea Teegarden. Second team selections were Cathy Brown, Jackie Crump, Dana Alexander, and Molly McPhail. Patty Hammerlynck received honorable mention recognition.

The Laker team was composed of nine seniors, two juniors, one sophomore, and one frosh. This was a very experienced team which compiled a two-year record of 46 wins and 3 defeats.

J.V. SOFTBALL

The girls had a very successful season as the first junior varsity softball team ever at Lake Oswego. The rainy spring interrupted the practice schedule and postponed several games, but the girls persevered and finished the season with a very respectable 11 win, 3 loss record.

The team worked well as a group, a fact which was largely responsible for the team's success.

With many of the varsity players graduating this year, several of the J.V. players will be playing important roles on next year's varsity squad. With the valuable experience gained this year, the players should be able to make a smooth transition to varsity level competition in 1980.

This year's varsity baseball team was a young group of inexperienced players from last year's J.V. squad. Although their overall record of 9-18 was not very impressive, a great deal was accomplished over the course of the season in fundamentals and experience.

Leading hitters on the team were sophomore Mark Stathas with a .358 batting average and Rich Lindsay, who hit a solid .313. The top pitcher was Charlie Austin, who compiled a strong 3.00 earned run average.

Stathas and Austin each received All-Wilco League honorable mention recognition.

JV BASEBALL

This was a building year for the Laker baseball program, and the J.V. squad was no exception. The team was composed of all sophomores who gained some valuable game experience this season. The highlight of the 1-10 year was a hard-fought 2-1 victory over Lakeridge. Top hitter Chris Abbott singled in the decisive run for the Lakers. Most consistent pitcher this year was Curtis "C.D." Bowers. The Lakers should be much improved next year.

Top row: Jay Hotchkiss, Mark Phillips, Kurt Bowers, Rick Noonan, Steve Blaha, Bob Roberts.

FROSH BASEBALL

"The freshman baseball team this season did not fare well in the win column, but they showed a sincere effort to improve their skills through many hours of practice," commented Coach Rich Anderson when asked to evaluate his team's performance this season. He added, "The win-loss results do not always indicate the complete success of a season; individual development can be equally important also." Despite their 2-9 record, this year's Laker frosh represent an encouraging future for Laker baseball.

Good Times '79

≡ Port of Call ≡

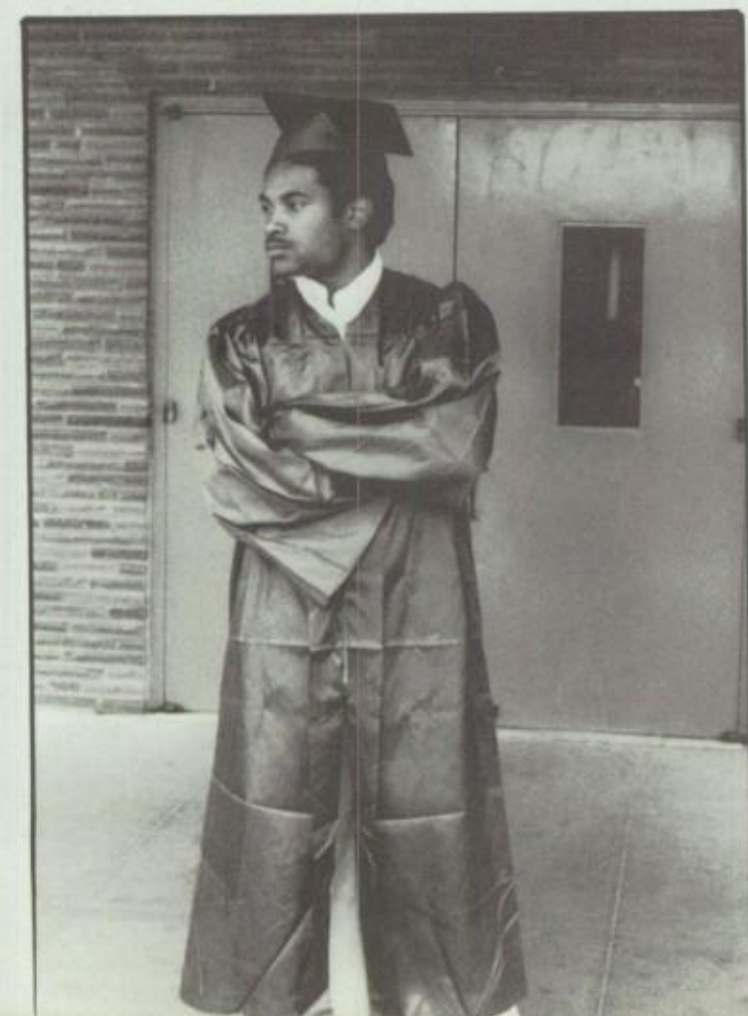

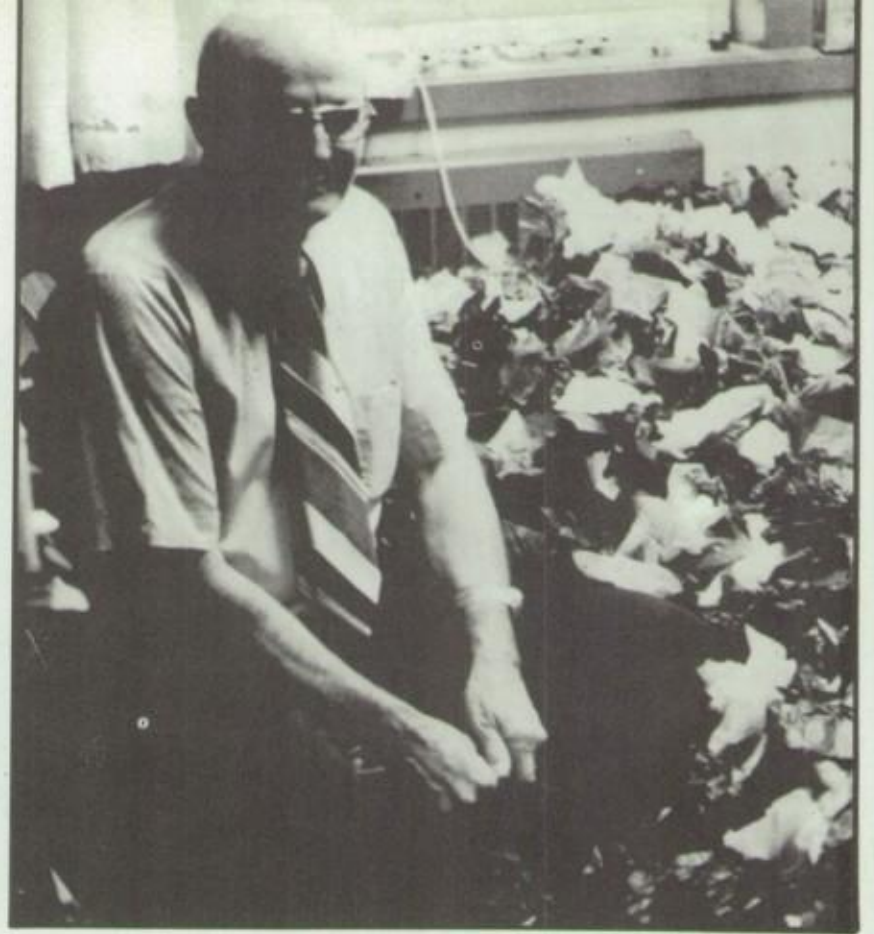

June 7, 1979 . . .

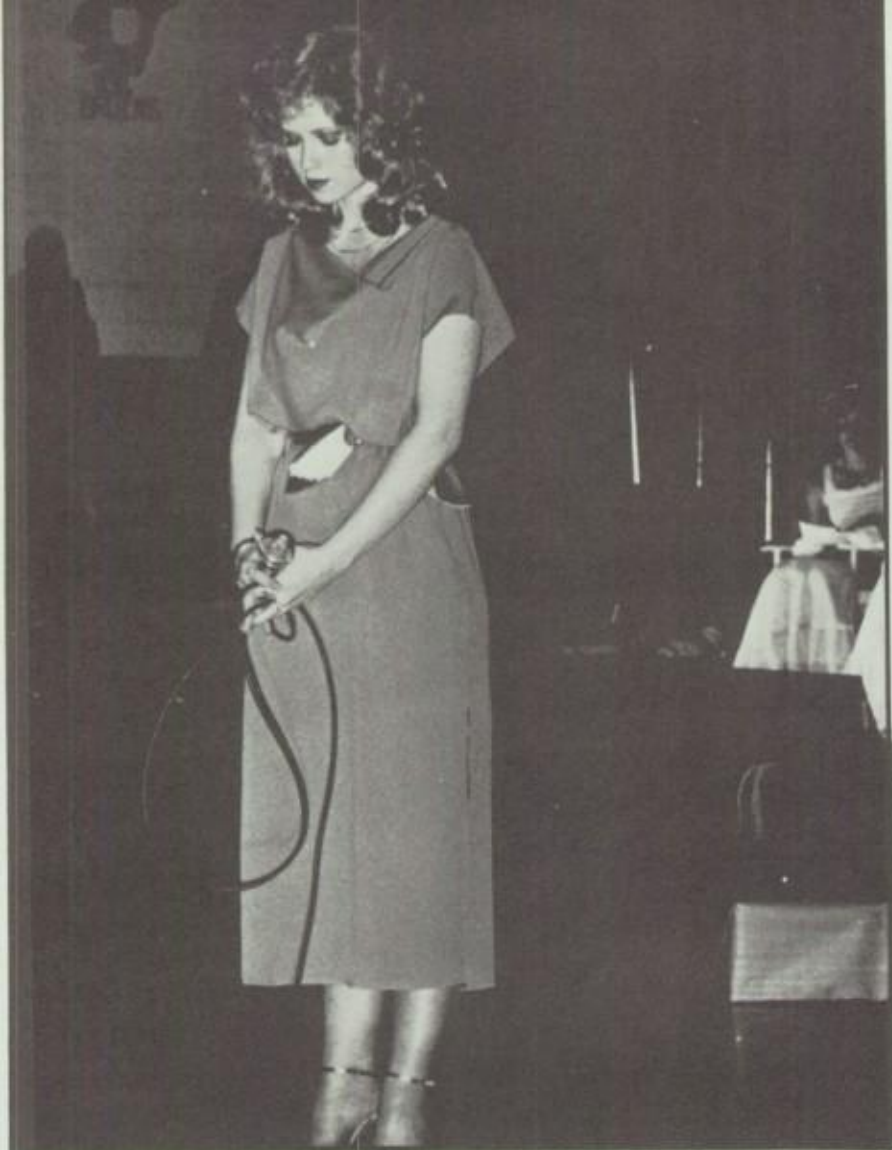

The journey for some has ended. Seeking new directions, they depart on new paths; their senses alert, their imaginations stirred, their lives enriched for having traveled this Voyage of Discovery.

Others will embark again; for there is yet a time to experience the freedoms that growing and learning offer. There is much still to be revealed aboard the Voyage of Discovery.

New travelers will guide this voyage in days and years hence, and they will have their time. For now, there is a calm upon the water; the days grow longer into summer, And all the dreams of summer Sail across the skies.

ACTIVITIES, HONORS, AND AWARDS

Spring is an extra-busy time of year, especially since it includes the end of the school year.

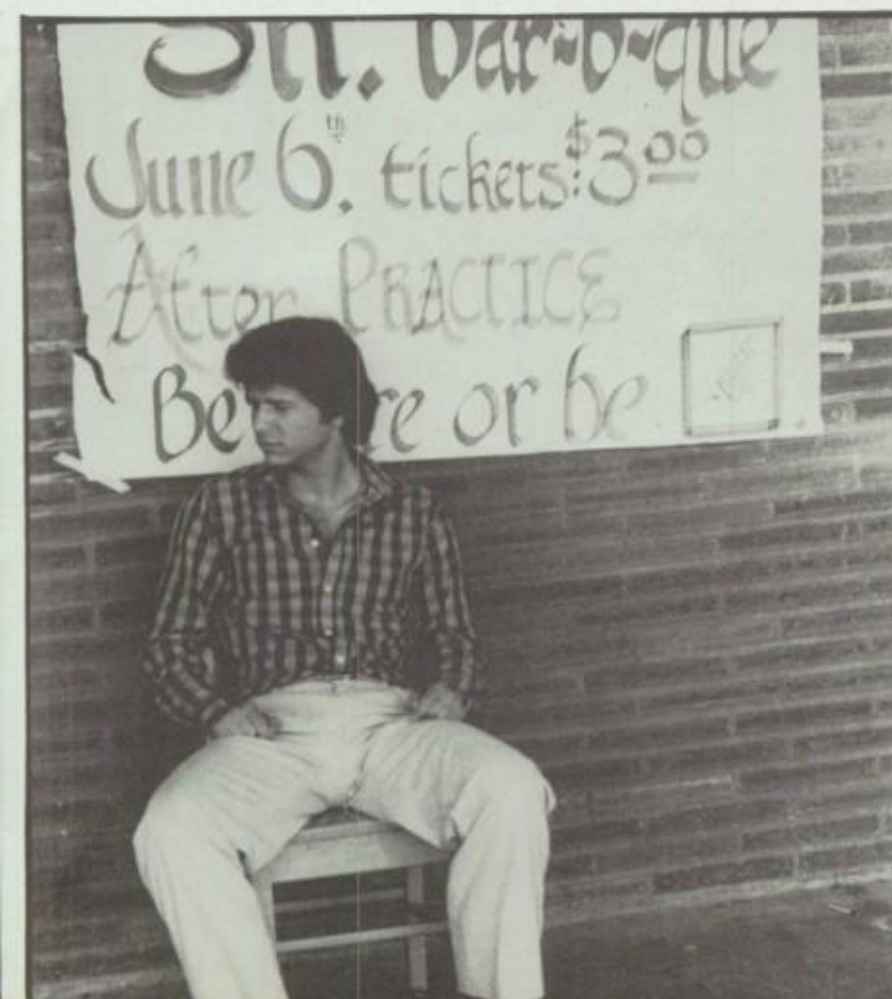

Lake Oswego's Thespian Troupe attended the Oregon State Thespian Conference and came away with many honors including being named one of the top troupes in the state. First place in Musical Theatre was awarded to Marcia Badgley, Scott Bussey, Charlotte Dietz, Troy Schmit, and Camilla Lambertsen. Amee Luzier was a member of the first place Improvisation group, and Mike Woolman took first place in pantomime. The Thespians were active throughout the year. At the Wilco League Improvisation Festival in the fall, Troy Schmit took first place, and at the Mt. Hood Community College Theatre Contest, Garret Acott placed first in pantomime, Eric Johnson was first in Improvisation, and Lisa Kolve and Troy Schmit took second of 68 teams in duo-acting.

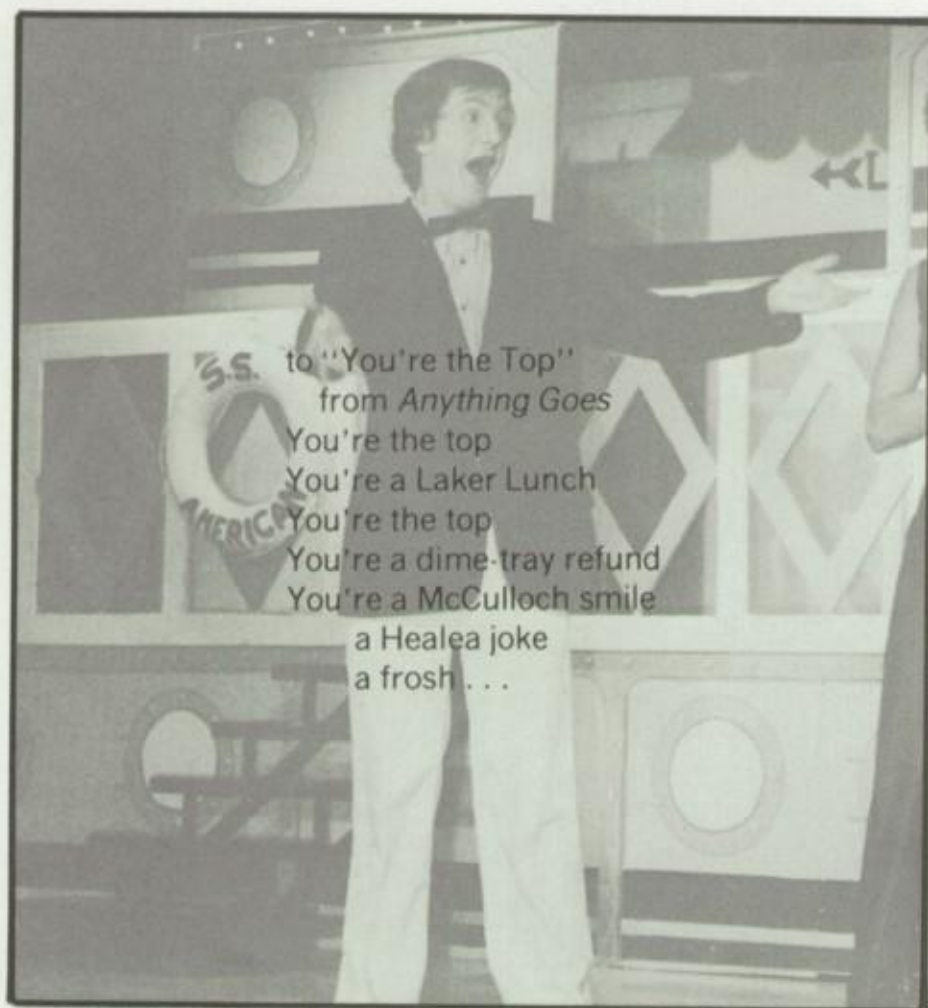

At the Fine Arts Dessert in May, the Thespians recognized the outstanding performances of their members during the year. Paul Lindstedt and Suzie Stageberg were chosen best actor and actress in a drama for their roles in Plaza Suite. Charlie Bach and Caroline Collins were selected as best actor and actress in a musical for their parts in You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown. Best Backstage work was awarded to Tad Schmit. Named Outstanding Thespian by her peers was Charlotte Dietz, and Troy Schmit was runner-up.

The Art Department sponsored Express '79 an art show featuring the work of LOHS students in all art areas. Examples of works from Express '79 were exhibited at the Fine Arts Dessert.

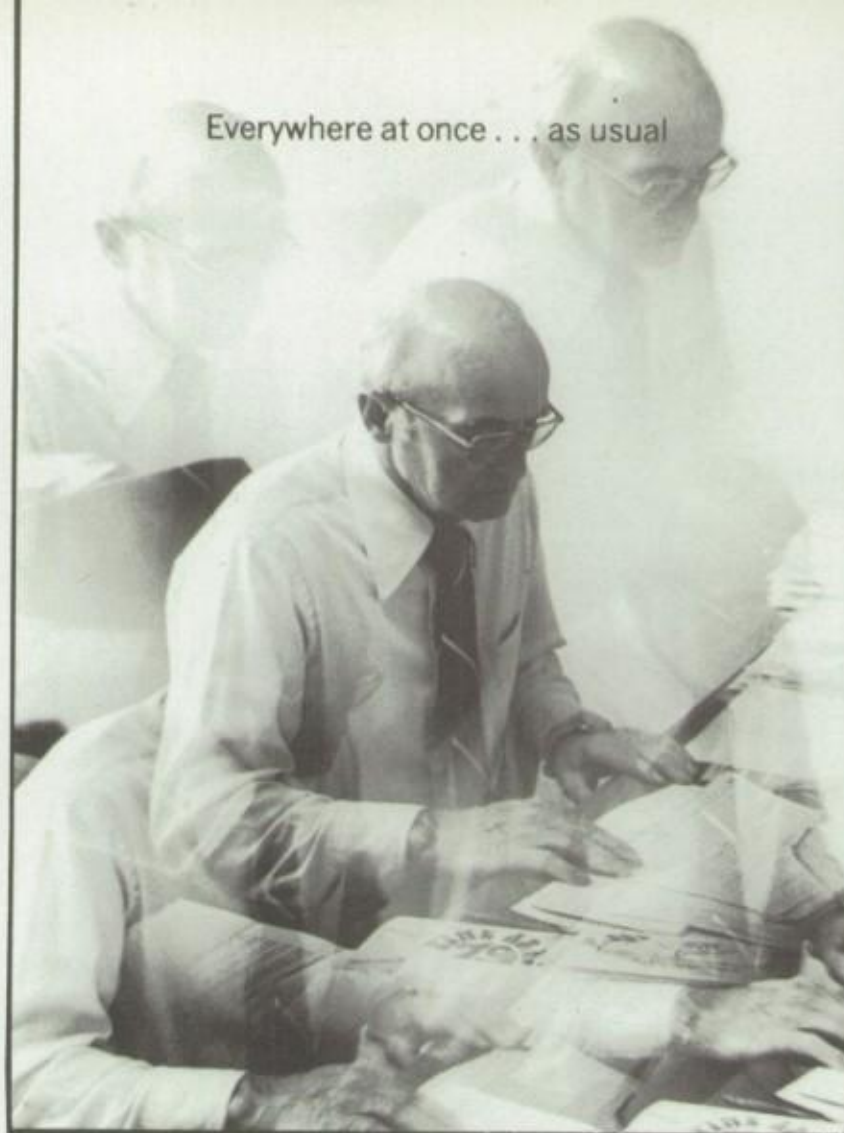

The Vocal Music Department also recognized the accomplishments of students at the Fine Arts Dessert. At the State Solo Contest, Nancy Omundson received first place while at the district level Charlie Bach and Marcia Badgely received superior ratings for their voices. The Windjammers were also recognized for their success this year, including a trip to San Francisco.

Other organizations that participated in activities this spring were DECA and Community Service. Members of DECA competed in a state conference where Cindy Illingworth and Duane Dominguez became eligible for national competition. The Community Service Committee coordinated a spring blood drive for the American Red Cross, and seventy students donated their own to help their fellow citizens.

When I Returned, He Wasn't There

Big pools of water stood in the mud, and the soil had been reduced to a slippery slush by the constant downpour of the pelting rain. Mean, foreboding, dark, gray clouds occasionally brightened by a lightning flash filled the afternoon sky. The darkness had overwhelmed the town two days ago and hadn't let up since. The wind wasn't howling, but it had an eerie chill to it that forced a shiver right down my vertebra disk by disk. As the procession trudged up the hill in the mud, their dull umbrellas held close and their gloomy coats wrapped snugly around them, the children glanced furtively from the corners of their eyes in case a ghost should materialize. The weather had been this way ever since he left. The silence was only broken by the rhythmic thuds of the procession — not a child dared speak, or a baby cry. A Mysterious atmosphere of doom surrounded them.

They reached the open grave where a little wooden cross would mark his place; he wouldn't even have a stone with his name on it. Years from now when the wood had decayed into nothingness, no one would know where he lay and he would be lost forever among the fresh green grass and daisies which would bloom in summer. His relatives had come because they cared, or so they said; but he should have a mark of stone, a marble monument. They could well afford it, but he never got it. Attending the funeral was a formality on their part, a boring duty required of a family, done because it would look bad if they did not attend. The steady melancholy voice of Father Peter was heard above the constant thuds of the rain in the background. A few women began to cry because the moment was appropriate. Most of them did not even know him well and had no reason to cry. As soon as the Father had finished the graveside rites, everyone left except me. I stood there, crouched behind a nearby bush, watching the men smother him with earth-wet, slush, grimy, wormy earth. Do they know what they are covering up with their impersonal strokes?

Walking down Moss Lane in the mud, I came upon the old shack. The door was barred, but I pried it open. Lighting the lantern I came upon the chair, his chair; a pipe lay on a high table covered with dust. Everything was just the way it had always been, only he was not there. "Oh, Oldman, I can see you so well, sitting in your chair and telling me stories. I've heard them all a million times before, but it is worth hearing them again — just to see your sad eyes shine with the memories of your youth." Sometimes his face would wrinkle into a smile and he would go off into a different world. I knew the history of all his earthly possessions. They were few, but oh! so precious; he never failed to tell me about them each time I went to visit him, for his memory of the present had withered like his face, but his memory of the past was as vivid as his spirit. Feeling a great sense of loss and sadness, I took his pipe as a token of the happy times I had spent in this room listening to his tales of long ago.

He was my best friend; I had none at school. Every day about Math Class time I came to visit him. No one had known where I was and when father found out I got a good thrashing for it. Father warned me there would be many more unless I stopped missing school, and finally the pain of my sore behind forced me into submission. For a whole month I never ventured near the old shack, and when I returned two days ago, he was gone; he wasn't there.

As I turned the yellow pages of his ancient photograph album, I heard the sound of slow footsteps coming up the drive. I ran to the door, and when I saw him there, I rushed to embrace him. There we were, just me and the old man standing in the middle of the driveway, happy in the rain.

K.G. Scott

*In wartime it's the flying aces who receive the cheers,
It's the dashing, fearless pilots telling jokes and sipping beers
With local girls in shabby bars in the countryside of France
Who personify the glory of the life-and-death romance.
And such a one was K.G. Scott in standard hero dress
Of battered leather, scarf, and goggles — ready to impress.
He could take his plane apart and then rebuild it in the dark,
And he claimed he'd come to fight the war for something like a lark.
But sometimes in the night time he would lose control of dreams,
And he tossed about in terror and the sweat rolled down in streams,
For his nightmares called his confidence a foolish, bloated liar,
And he felt his aeroplane break down and he would dream, of fire.*

*K.G. Scott could face the danger with acquaintance in his eye.
He had seen the way a shot plane smokes and spins down from the sky,
But he loved the whole adventure and had nerves of iron stuff;
He could almost fly by feel and he had shot down planes enough.
Alone with just a shaky craft to hold him in the air,
He knew the thrill of counting on himself to keep it there,
But still there were the images of burning, scorching flame.
His flying buddies all tell tales of K.G. Scott's bold flights.
But none could tell about his battles with the dream-filled nights.
His aeroplane was lost above the Channel in a squall.
In strong winds planes like those he flew were little good at all.*

Alone During a Summer Storm

The night is gray, it frightens me.

*I hear the untamed wind as it roars
And wails and rushes by in its mad, macabre dance, a whirling dervish,
And I am alone.*

*The night grows blacker, and
it frightens me.*

*I see fingers of light as they crackle and hiss and race through a velvet curtain,
Animated ribbons, dropped by a careless girl.
And I am alone.*

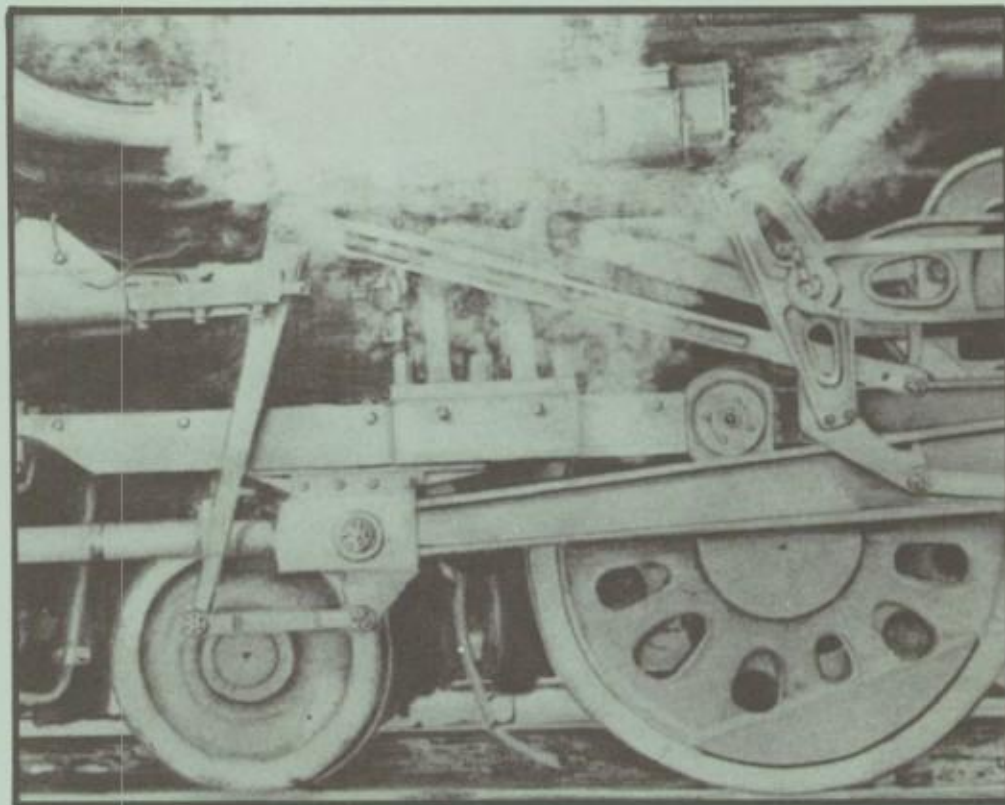

*The night is strangely silent now.
It frightens me.*

The cobwebs are brushed from the stars to let them sparkle and spin and twinkle to soothe me

Bright eyes of angels in heaven.

And I am not alone - or afraid.

Take the Time to See

*My life was like a second hand, constantly in motion.
Running, always running,
my life was a commotion.*

*One day I slowed to the minute hand's pace, and I began to see
The beauty of the world - this world surrounding me.*

*I saw a single daisy,
out in a meadow of green,
glistening in the sunlight surrounded by playful bees.*

*I saw a lazy brook,
its water slowly churning
Down and out of sight
on its endless journey.*

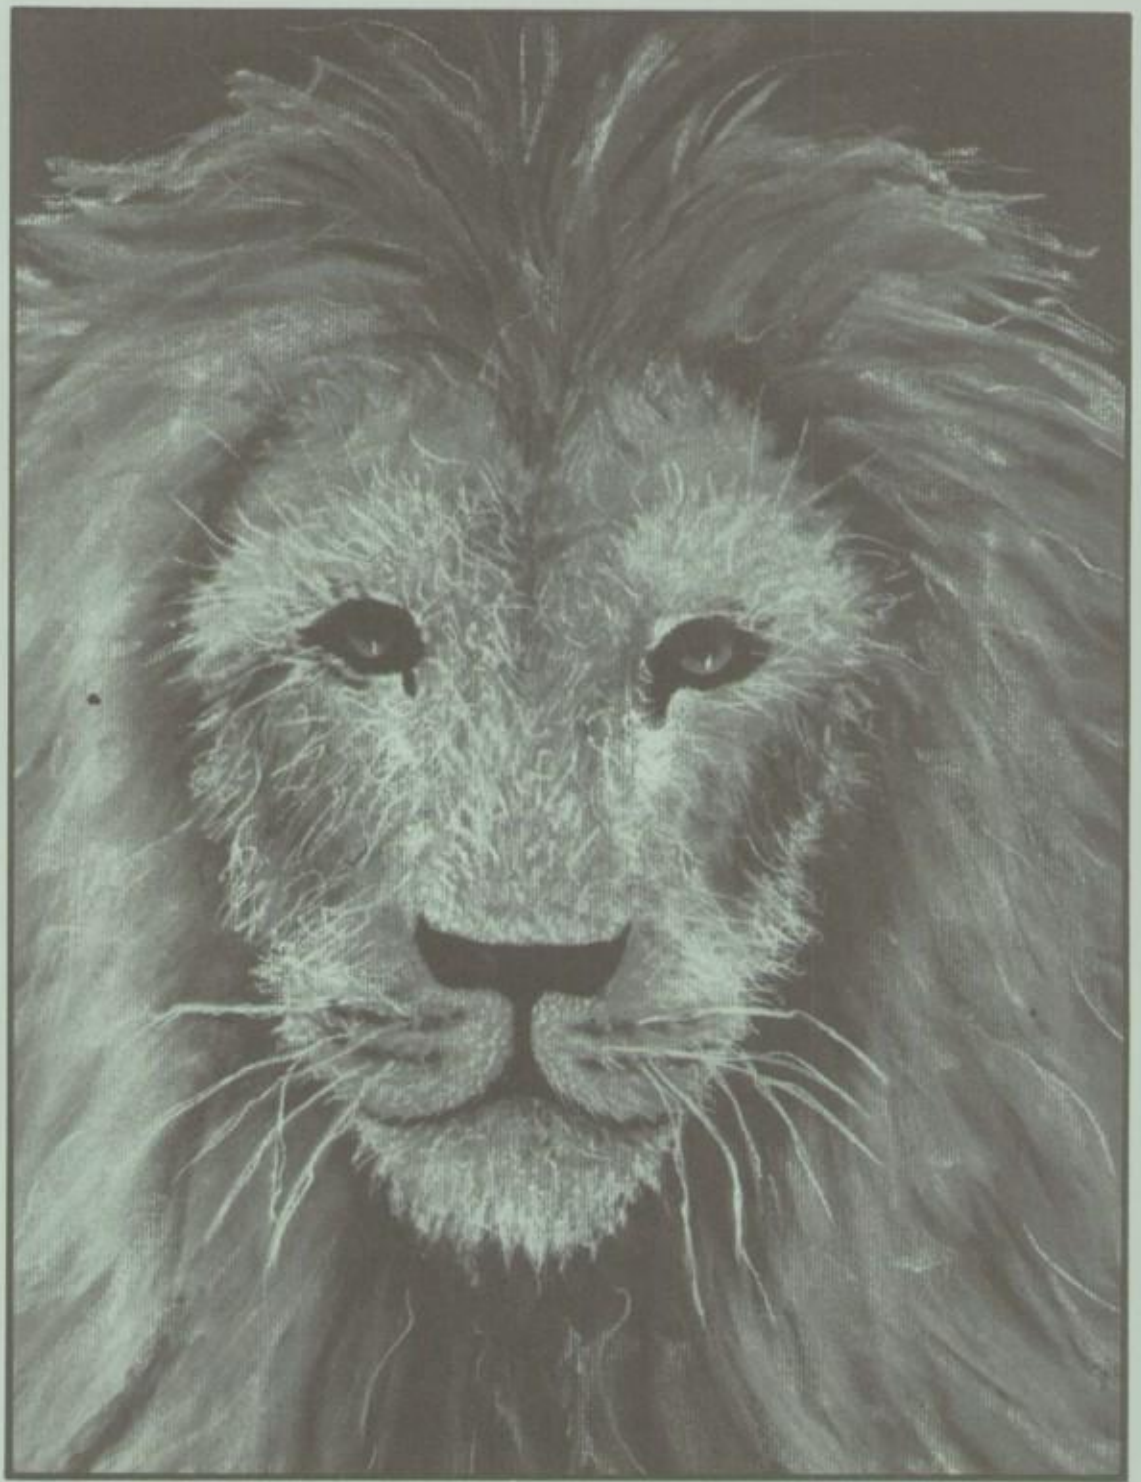

*This, I thought, was a wonderful thing,
it must get better yet.
So, I slowed my life to the hour hand's pace,
and I stopped to catch my breath.*

*For there I saw around me,
beside the flower and brook,
The beauty in each person.
I took a second look.*

*I saw one person pause,
and give a helping hand
To someone who had slipped,
and fallen in the sand.*

*I saw another person,
help someone unknown,
wipe away the angry tears,
great patience that did show.*

*I learned a lot that happy day;
it took one simple key:
Just slow your life for a short while,
and take the time to see.

TENSION

The young mischief-maker sits with Jello in hand.
Few see him, but all feel his presence.
Quiet murmurs combine into a subdued roar.
Suddenly the Jello flies!
Another follows it, and is returned.
The moment of truth.
Someone yells:
"SIT DOWN!"
The crisis is reached.
Either it stops or the fights erupts.
Two apple crisps and a milk across the room.
Girls scream, chairs screech.
In five seconds, everyone is gone.
The battle lasts but a few moments.
The bystanders emerge from underneath tables.
The warriors have some casualties, but those who suffer most are the innocent.

A Writer's Lament

here i sit staring at the paper and pleading with my thoughts to form themselves.
but they will not have it so.
they prefer their cozy nook
in my dimly lit skull
to any stark sheet
of paper.
i cannot say that i blame them;
how many of us
care to give up the security of obscurity
for the dangerous life of scrutiny?

Refuse

The poems
scattered throughout the room
leapt from their oppressor and hurled themselves into the garbage can (amid the remnants of a Hershey wrap)
and were carted off to the dump
along with an echo
of the writer's mind.

A Matter of Opinion

I certainly don't need you - that's a proven fact.

In this age of liberated individuals - women, in the case at hand - I fit right in. I'm quite capable of supporting myself, caring for myself and defending myself. I don't need someone to pamper me or clear the way for me, for I'm usually a fairly rational, clear-thinking person. I don't need you to tell me I'm wonderful or intelligent or capable because I usually have a basically good opinion of myself and I can always call "Dial an Ego" to boost me when I'm feeling low. I don't need you for company because my plants and my hermit crabs have seen me through many a dull night. I don't need you to put my life in order, for I like the order it's in, thank you. So you can see, I certainly don't need you. But will you come home soon? I still want you . . .

VLAD TEPES

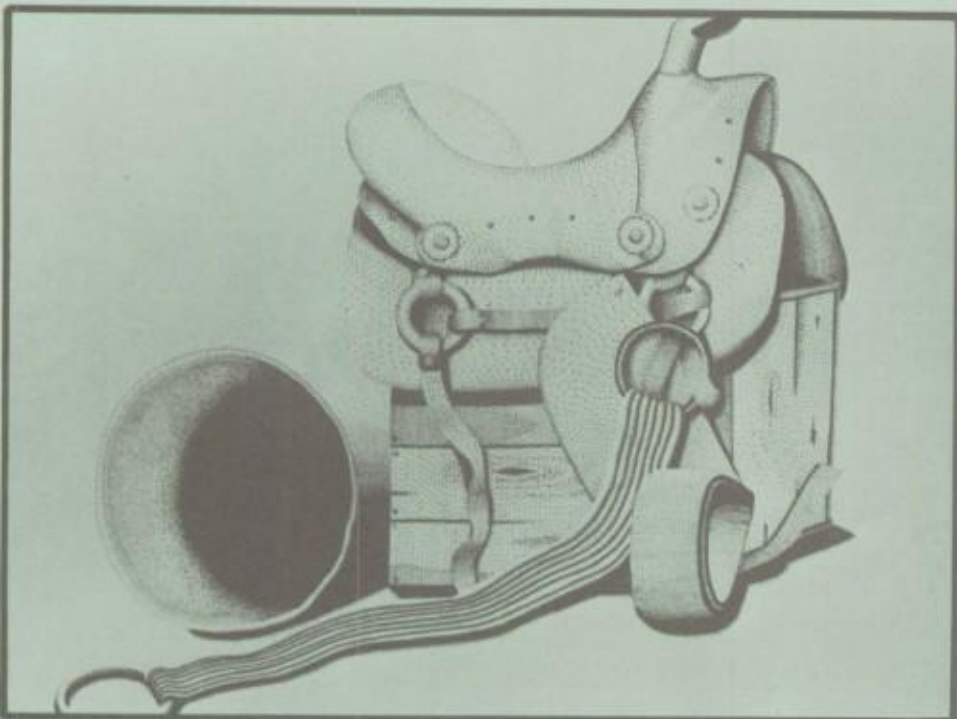

Footsteps in the tower in the middle of the night
 Rain beats ineffectively against the ancient stone,
 Thunder rumbles in the distance, lightning flashed veins of light,
 Silent, still, the corridors, decaying, left alone,
 Are echoing the footsteps in the middle of the night.
 A click of heels, the brush of cape along with the dead stone floor —
 A shape appears upon the turret, its blackness lined with light
 When lightning slices darkness like a crack in Heaven's door.
 He turns his head in survey of the stark and dismal land,
 His head held up in arrogance, his figure tall and straight
 His cape draped over striking shoulders, rings upon his hand.
 Master of the ancient stone, his bearing seems to state.
 The subtle sleekness of his hair blends with the sable sky;
 The face, by contrast gaunt and pale as is the jeweled hand;
 Piercing light, not green nor gray, in each discerning eye;
 Fine-shaped teeth between the lips; stark and hard as lead.
 Hoofbeats of a single horse, staccato in the night,
 Approaching the stone tower with an angry voice that cries:
 "Thou demon!" By thy ghoulish deed my darling one now dies!
 "I see thee!" screams the grief-struck man and gunshot splits the air.
 The master's head turns wrathfully; the strong eyes snap with light.
 And then a look of question, then he is no longer there —
 Only slowly tapping footsteps in the middle of the night.

Eulogy of the Hero

Quiet and pensive, here I lie
Given to thoughtfulness of that which has passed
Down the rocky road of existence.
Surrounding me are four bleak walls -
Stoney to my plight, but eternal -
Like my very soul.
Alone in a hardened box
Forever to consider my times
Never to be relieved of this song
How well I remember the melancholy lyrics.
They are forever imprinted in my mind -
It is pain to sing, but sing I must.

The first was angelic yet moody.
She carved open my heart and Played inside, then forgot to sew me up.
My grief was phenomenal and Desperately I tried to preserve her friendship
But she was not willing.
"Chalk it up to experience and leave me alone!"
She said shooting the first gun.
And so I tried just that.

The next was manic - depressive
Narcissistic I thought - so enclosed.
"I hate everybody" she would say
Seething was fury and anger I could not understand.
I was perplexed. Why?
She wouldn't answer, only laugh.
I didn't laugh, just cry
As the second bullet buried itself in my heart
And I stumbled on.

There was the last one.
She was unique -
Flitting around me like a bird
She lighted upon my shoulder
Whispering kind things to me
As I reached to grab her
She flew off -
Stealing the last living tissues of my heart.
And so I waited.

When the day did come
It was too late -
The mind had rotted away
The soul was decayed
There was no funeral, nobody cared
Except the hero me.

Unrequited Love

*she touches his face and murmurs his name . . .
 he smiles up at her
 radiating love,
 showering her
 in his warmth.
 she whispers, "i love you,"
 but he does not reply.
 he never does -
 he is silent as usual.
 besides being impossible,
 his answer is unnecessary
 for his face conveys all.
 she sighs
 a gentle sigh
 and places a small kiss
 on his square chin
 with the tip of her finger.
 she smiles with the knowledge of their mutual love;
 too bad he's only a face

With the Words Goodbye

*We never thought about saying goodbye
 you only said goodbye to relatives that stayed for visits
 not to truest best friends who knew all your awful secrets
 But a time came when we chose different avenues in a grown-up world where we learned a part of you dies
 with the words goodbye.*

SAVE MY SEAT

"Eileen? Eileen Melton, where are you?"

The voice shot through the dark, quiet theater, hit everyone's eardrums, and rebounded off the walls until it finally died away. After a few moments of shocked silence, the crowd began to groan and mumble.

"Geez," they wheezed as they squirmed to regain the lost mood of the moment. But, the tender bathtub scene just didn't have the same romantic quality of before. As the giggles and moans finally died down, the piercing cry arose again.

"Eileen?"

As our chuckles sounded anew, a voice from directly behind us, muffled by a head buried in popcorn, mumbled, "Over here."

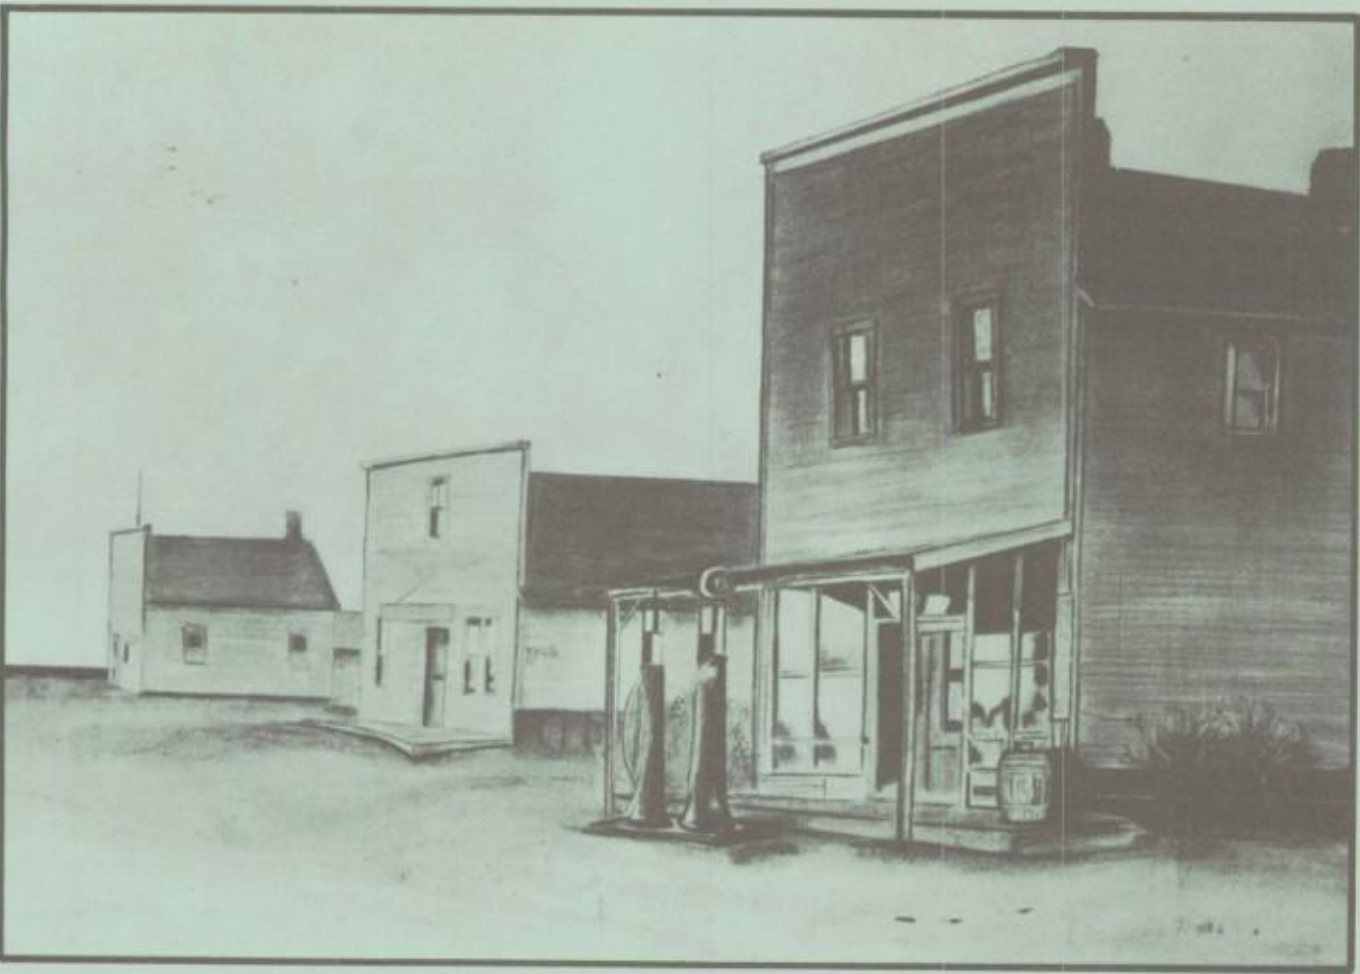

It was too much. The bathtub and silver screen were forgotten as the theater shook to its chandeliers with laughter.

As the lost lamb found its way back to the fold, I noticed the distinct odor of chocolate in the surrounding air. Since no one in my immediate vicinity was eating chocolate, I was puzzled. But, I was too enthralled with the sentimental bathtub piece to investigate further. It wasn't until a few moments later that my suspicions were again aroused when I reached into my pocket for some gum. As I extracted my hand, I was stunned to see it covered with a warm, dark, sticky substance. Thinking for sure that I was bleeding to death, I frantically searched for the wound as a chocolatey cloud hovered above. Then my mind suddenly clicked and, expecting the worst, I felt around on the seat under me. With delicate care and disgust, I pulled an oozing Hershey's mess into the flickering light. It drooped slowly as I stared with dismay. I shook it angrily and threw it to the floor where it landed with a sickening plop. I hunched down in my seat, fuming, certain that the guy across the aisle had planted the chocolate bar for his own amusement. And from directly behind me I heard a slow chuckle.

In Answer to the Question "Past or Future?"

"I'll keep the past," I told the man who strains time through his finger.
(It's strange the way it slips right through and never slows or lingers)
I told the man the past was all I trusted anyway -
It supports the formless plasma that we live for called "today" Without the past, what is the now? The now is all that was . . .
He looked at me and closed his hand to stop the flow because He was that I'd accepted the last fistful as the last,
For death may rob the future, but it cannot touch the past.

THE SHOW WILL GO ON! (AN ODE TO '79)

The sad, barren stage listened eagerly for the familiar foot-steps that used to echo on his shiny floor.

He heard nothing.

They were gone; those talented kids who were no longer kids, that used to bring a character alive, who gave breath to a meaningless figure in a script. No longer, thought the stage, will I hear their voices singing so enticingly or hear the tap-tapping of their dancing feet. The somber stage looked around at the emptiness around him. I am nothing, he thought. I am like a nest without a bird, an empty void. And the stage felt lonely and without love. But what was that? A footstep, but not one of familiarity.

Who then?

A young girl shyly stepped out upon the stage. She looked around and smiled as if an audience lay before her. Taking a deep breath she began to sing. Her clear voice projected across the stage and echoed against walls, filling the room with shimmering magic. The stage sighed with great relief and began to understand. The good talent of the past would never be forgotten and would always hold a certain amount of sadness for him, but there would always be something to look forward to.
